Carmel man a witness to history during Beijing visit

By DAVID LELAND

PERSONAL SAFETY nudged out journalistic curiosity sometime during the night of June 6, 1989 for Rod Holmgren as the Carmel resident sat in his room at The Friendship Hotel in Beijing.

The deciding factor, he says, was when a visiting journalist asked if the hotel had a bomb shelter — it did. Speculation was rife that government troops were prepared to fire missiles at the 38th Division, which was sympathetic with demonstrating students.

Those troops were located in a direct line with the Friendship Hotel from Tiananmen Square, where government forces had killed students only two days before.

Holmgren returned to his Hatton Fields home on June 8, armed with notes, pictures and memories.

The longtime Carmel resident is one of a small number of Americans to witness what could be termed as one of the major historical events of the 20th century.

"I have a feeling of sadness over what I think is going to be an unpleasant future for China," says the former journalism teacher from Monterey Peninsula College.

Indeed, Holmgren has not contacted his Chinese friends living in China because he fears they will suffer government reprisals.

"I'm refraining from that because I'm afraid any kind of communication would be dangerous to them," says Holmgren, 74.

By not keeping in touch with his friends in China, Holmgren has been forced to sever relationships which began when he first travelled to the nation in 1982.

It was that year that he first taught Chinese students the skills of the fourth estate at the Graduate Institute of Journalism.

He returned to teach at the Beijing Broadcasting Institute in 1986, where he was the first person to teach a course on broadcast news writing.

The most recent trip was scheduled for Holmgren to give several lectures to journalism students. He also wanted Chinese medical opinions on several health matters.

But before he could leave the United States, his Chinese contact, Zhou Lifang, called and said, "It probably wouldn't be a good idea to come now."

There would be little point to plan to lecture at schools, he said — they were all closed because of student demonstrations.

"I decided to go as a tourist," says Holmgren.

He left for Beijing May 22 with a roundtrip ticket dated to return on June 30.

BY THE time he arrived in China, massive peaceful student demonstrations were underway. He went directly from the airport to the Mizu Hotel, located one mile from Tiananmen Square.

The thoroughfare in front of the hotel served as a main pathway for students from Qinghua, Beijing and People's universities marching to the square.

"I got a confused series of impressions," says Holmgren of his arrival. "In many ways it was the same as 1986; in other ways it was different."

Despite the student demonstrations, Holmgren remembers the streets being crowded with buses, pedestrians and bicyclists, exactly as before.

'I am convinced, after talking to many, many people, that the number killed is between 2,500 and 3,000 (students). It was really brutal.'

"You couldn't see anything different," he says.

By the second day, however, demonstrations had intensified.

Holmgren spent that afternoon snapping pictures of students as they listened to speakers using battery-operated microphones.

History lesson

Dear Editor:

Ray Mungo, who is writing the history of the Pine Cone, is hampered by the fact that he does not recognize who certain persons were who were actively associated with the paper in the past. One of these is Frank Lloyd who wrote under the byline of Francis L. Lloyd.

Frank's connection with the Pine Cone started when the paper was bought by James L. Cockburn, who enlisted the advice of Perry Newberry. The latter recommended that Cockburn employ Frank, who not only had spent six years as a sportswriter on a metropolitan daily but had also been associated in an editorial capacity with two small town dailies. Frank talked to Perry and took the job. He then undertook planning, news and feature writing which continued through the Cockburn, MacPhail and McCarthy ownerships. (Mungo missed McCarthy.) With MacPhail, Frank worked the paper on shares.

My association with the Pine Cone did not start in 1941 as Mungo reported. I began with the Cockburn regime and lasted into the Drake era. The latter suggested it would look better if I left. I was pregnant.

Later I returned to the Pine Cone during the Clifford Cook ownership (he was one of the linotype operators earlier). After Wilma Cook, his wife and editor, died, I became editor and lasted through two sales and two repossessions.

Get on with job

Dear Editor:

I wish to commend you on the David Leland article about the Hatton Canyon Freeway in the June 1 issue. There has been so much said critical of the proposed roadway in your pages, that this is like letting in a breath of fresh air.

Leland's article brings out the good opinion of several unprejudiced local people who have opportunity to be knowledgeable about the plan, and have contributed toward some of the refinements that are being made.

Were it not for the coalition of people who have personal interests (those who have homes along the canyon or who have businesses they think would be injured), who, through a campaign of repeated and repeated criticisms, (much of which is about minor environmental concerns), have developed a sizable following, there would be realization of the desirability of the Caltrans plan and urgency to have it done. A development such as the Hatton Canyon Freeway is needed very much and the Caltrans design is an excellent one. No one has come up with an alternate nor variation that is superior.

It is hard to understand the Carmel position, as represented by the city council. They must realize that the freeway will get the through traffic off of what should be city streets, and actually reduce the traffic within Carmel-by-the-Sea city limits. It will result in great improvement in transit between Carmel and Carmel Valley and the mouth of the valley area. And the elevated roadway across the mouth of the valley will look every bit as good, from the Carmel side, as the back side of The Barnyard and The Crossroads parking area do now.

I have lived in Carmel 10 years now so I more or less understand the point of view here, but the position on this is hard to comprehend. The freeway is not in or through anything, but bypassing Carmel — and it will not cost Carmel anything, directly. It will be of help to our neighbors to the north, the south and the east and to our friends from everywhere who want to get through Carmel, not stop and start and stop and start here.

Let us encourage the professionals to get on with the job.

Harold J. Benson

For the record

Dear Editor:

The Carmel Residents Association editorial of June 1, 1989 is described in your June 8 issue as having been written by the C.R.A. Board of directors. That implies that we all read and approved the editorial as published. Just for the record, I did not see the editorial in its form in which it was published before it appeared in The Pine Cone.

Fellow tenants

Dear Editor:

In this country where movie stars rescue dogs and cats and political enemies join to extend mercy to stranded whales (is that major glasnost or what?), our species is at last offering kinder, gentler attitudes to our fellow tenants on the planet.

Recently Bill Blass, fashion designer, declared he had given up designing anything with fur. "I can no longer justify it," he said. That should spare some animals the bloody tortures of the leg-hold trap, and the inhumane death by suffocation or electrocution the fur farms feature for the sake of vanity.

Fur coats never look as good on the second wearer anyway, why women like that bulky shapeless look I cannot understand.

My mother-in-law had a full-length wild mink coat and a full-length wild baby ocelot and absolutely no conscience at all about how those skins got off the original owners backs and onto hers. But then, if you knew the woman you wouldn't be surprised.

Me? I wear a gorgeous black wool coat and as far as I know the original owners are still alive and sharing.

He's no longer chairman, but still gets his views heard

By NANCY HILLS

RETIRED ARCHITECT Olof Dahlstrand is no longer the planning commission's chairman, but no doubt he will remain as influential a commissioner as he has in the past.

Soft-spoken and well-liked, Dahlstrand makes reasoned arguments that are the bane of those who take an opposing view.

During his term as chairman, Dahlstrand presided over changes in the planning commission agenda and the development of laws to bring city codes into compliance with a new general plan.

Additionally, Dahlstrand served on the general plan revision committee from 1986 to 1987, placing his stamp on city planning policies.

His most recent planning commission stint — he was also a commissioner from 1968 to 1972 — began in June 1986.

That was when Clint Eastwood, in one of his first moves as the new mayor of Carmel, swept out the entire planning commission he inherited from the previous administration and replaced it with seven members of his own choosing. Four other members of the current commission were also installed then.

When a change in administration took place in 1988, he worked on current mayor Jean Grace's campaign.

Dahlstrand took over the job of chairman in May 1988, but after a year said he felt it was time to let someone else sit in the center seat. At the May 24th commission meeting, he nominated commissioner Carla Ramsey for the job.

The commission unanimously voted Ramsey into the office and Dahlstrand moved back to a spot he occupied the previous two years as a commissioner.

"It was fun, very enjoyable," he said about his year with the gavel. "Especially given the spirit of the commission. I had many wonderful experiences."

Dahlstrand's views have conflicted at times with the push to impose more restrictions, but that is not his primary concern, he said.

"I'm a fairly strong believer in the whole idea of the marketplace going off in its own direction and for that reason I am very nervous about over-regulation. But I realize that just letting things take their course is not the answer, especially in Carmel," Dahlstrand explained.

"My real concern is that the city's goals are served by ordinance or rules that are clear and precise and that at the same time applicants and landowners are treated fairly."

An example of confusing laws are the commercial parking standards imposed on new and existing construction, Dahlstrand said.

An ordinance on the books allowed for too-wide a latitude in its interpretation in the past, leaving applicants in a uncertain position on whether or not they have to provide parking, in-lieu fees or nothing at all.

Most of the decisions about parking should wait until the parking committee finishes its work, Dahlstrand said.

Then, Dahlstrand said, the zoning ordinance was only six pages long compared with the inch-and-a-quarter-thick book that it is now.

He has pointed out that many of the houses now considered special and "Carmel quaint" were built before all those new codes existed.

"There used to be no design review in the R-1 and I think a check of the houses built before that process started would show that those homes are the very houses people are wringing their hands about losing," he said during his interview with The Carmel Pine Cone and at meetings on changes to the residential code.

Design review is the commission's process of looking at a proposed design of a new home and determining if it is appropriate for the site, neighborhood and Carmel's special character.

'I'm a fairly strong believer in the whole idea of the marketplace going off in its own direction and for that reason I am very nervous about over-regulation. But I realize that just letting things take their course is not the answer, especially in Carmel.'

— Olof Dahlstrand

In the past couple of years, building in the residential district has drawn residents' attention away from the commercial district, where traditionally the planning debates have centered.

Dahlstrand advocates revising the residential code — increasing setbacks, reducing allowed height, building site coverage — as a method to curb new house designs that the commission is getting flak for approving.

The council requested the commission make recommendations on reworking the R-1 code requirements to address the issues.

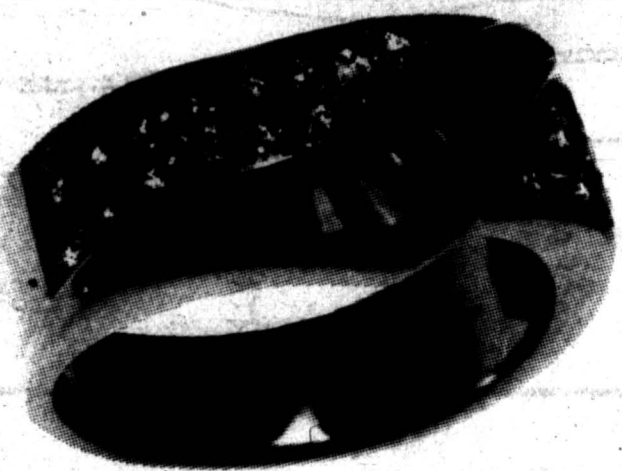

A task easier said than done. The commission has been trying to come to a consensus for months and now their recommendations will go to the council at its July 14 meeting.

The commission's biggest sticking point has revolved around whether or not to tighten the numerical, objective standards for housing sizes and setbacks or leave the code the same and conduct a more intense design review on each application.

Dahlstrand has favored both, but leans

Her summer vacation plans include a trip...to USSR

THE OLD complaint, "What am I going to do this summer?" is something that you won't hear from Roslyn Migdale, 11, of Carmel this summer — and not simply because she will be entering sixth-grade at Carmel Middle School next September.

The perky redhead is one of 50 American children throughout the country who have been invited by the USSR Academy of Sciences to participate in a unique three-week experience in cross-cultural living with 50 Soviet children from July 30 through Aug. 20.

The children will design and create huge murals at a summer camp in the woods not far from Leningrad. The murals, with the theme of "Life in the Next Century," will be entitled "The 21st Century Through the Eyes of Children" and will be entered in the prestigious 1990 Japanese International Art Festival.

A major force in arranging the camp is Bay Area author Patricia Polacco, whose book Reshenka's Eggs won the International Award for the Best Children's Book of 1989. Another of her works, The Keeping Quilt, was chosen to receive the Sidney Taylor Award for the best children's picture book of 1989. The United Nations has contacted Polacco about sending a film crew to the camp.

In order to qualify for the camp, Migdale had to write an essay on why she felt she would be a good ambassador on behalf of American children.

The camp is sponsored by the Center for US-USSR Relations in San Francisco in cooperation with the Soviet Academy of Sciences. At the Soviet end, the cross-cultural program is under the direct supervision of Dr. Evgeny Velikhov, who was recently promoted by Premier Gorbachev to full membership in the Central Committee.

The fun will begin next month and Roslyn says she is positively thrilled to be going.

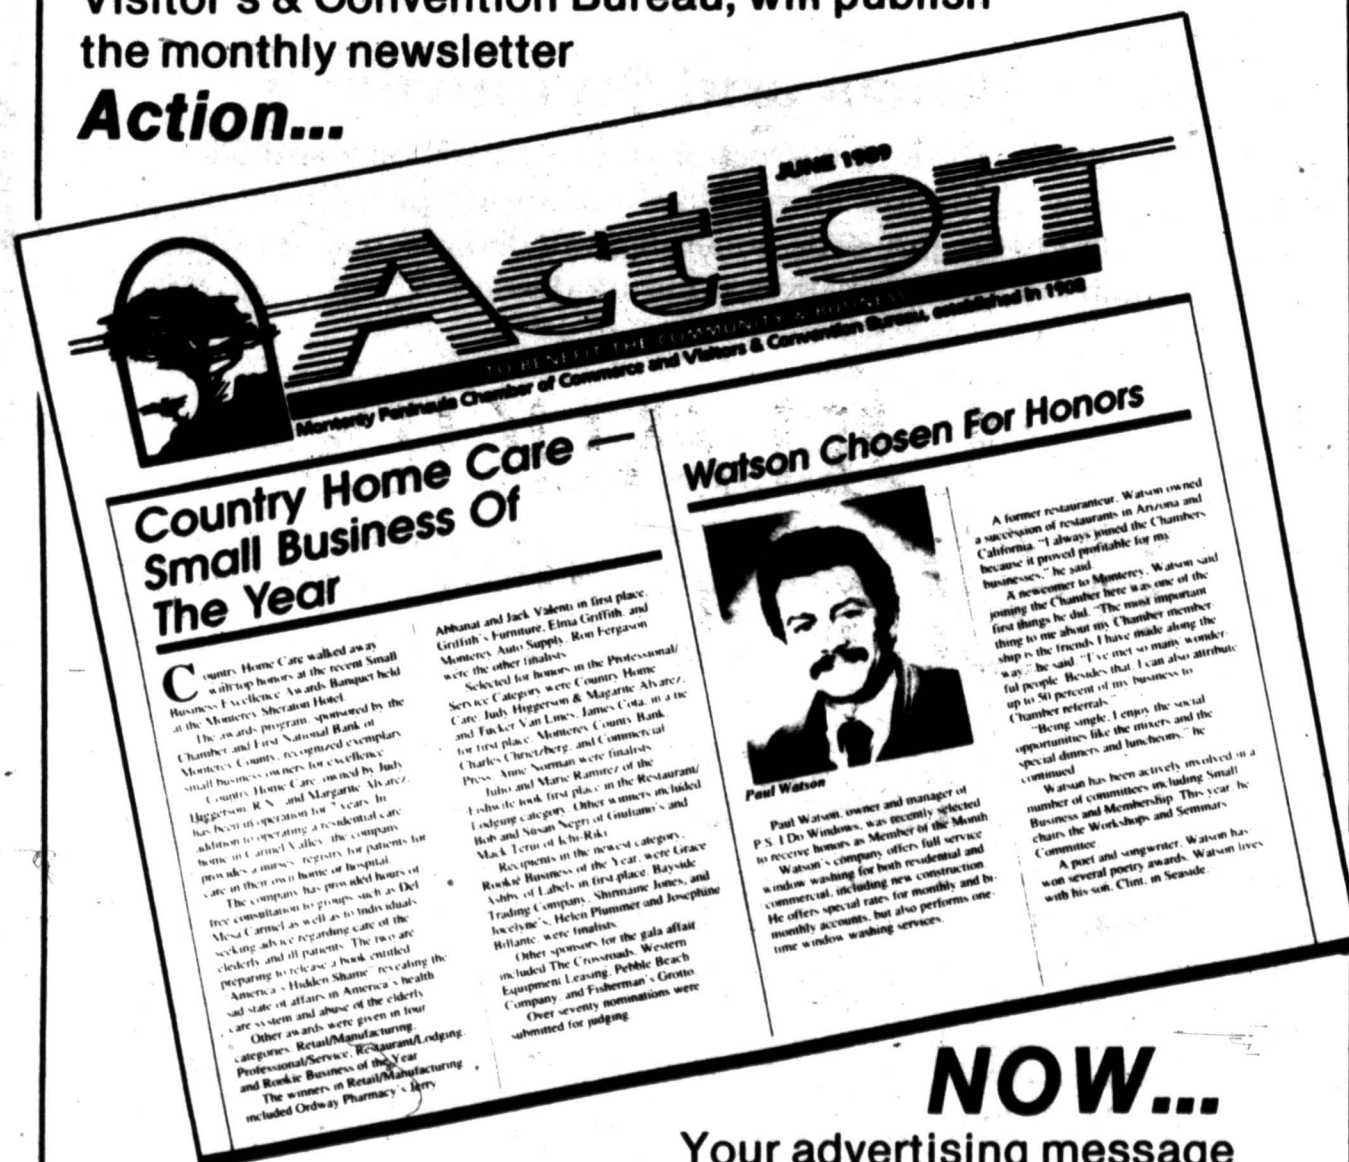

But meantime, under the watchful eye of her mom, Lorraine Gerstl, an elementary school teacher, Roslyn is studying the Russian language, the country and the people each night.

ROSLYN MIGDALE, 11, a sixth-grader at Carmel Middle School, will be headed to an art camp this summer — in the Soviet Union.

drawn up, if board members can agree on what it should contain.

Strasser Kauffman said she was "withholding any enthusiasm" for the tax measure until she had a chance to study the list.

Within her district, Strasser Kauffman supports:

- The four-laning of Carmel Valley Road to Robinson Road, which has been in the county's capital improvement plan for several years. The price tag is $25 million.
- Placing power lines underground from the Carmel Highlands to Big Sur — $13 million.
- A $7 million water-line repair for Pebble Beach.
- $300,000 for Cachagua Community Park.
- $13 million for a water reclamation project.

From a purely political standpoint, supervisors would likely be wary of supporting a tax measure which had little chance of passing muster with voters.

"Any kind of tax increase has to be viewed with suspicion," Strasser Kauffman said.

not guarantee success.

Stanislaus County raised and spent $159,583 for a general tax increase in November of 1988, only to have it fail by a scant 400 votes.

Morishita said the citizens committee should be composed of 20 people and be "broad yet balanced."

Suggestions for membership include:

- One person from each supervisorial district who is experienced in running campaigns and has knowledge about voters' interests in the district.
- People representing the business community, such as chamber of commerce, tourism, banking and agricultural industries.
- People representing labor and union interests.
- Individuals interested in specific projects, who are knowledgeable in that subject and capable of financial commitments.

A preliminary organizational meeting will be scheduled by Morishita's office before the end of June.

Delays, detours possible at two Carmel intersections

DELAYS AND detours could be experienced at two Carmel intersections because of street repairs, the city public works department announced.

Crews will be working at the intersections of Carpenter and Second and Fifth between Junipero and Mission during regular working hours on Thursday and Friday, June 29 and 30.

For more information call the public works department at 624-3543.

AND WHILE the board can initiate placing the tax measure on the ballot, it is forbidden by law from taking sides on the issue.

With that in mind, the county has set funds aside for the formation of a citizens committee to develop a campaign, raise funds and communicate with the news media.

The price of promoting a tax measure does not come cheap.

County Administrative Officer Ernest Morishita cited the $323,103 raised in San Diego County for a 1988 jail measure, which passed by a mere .6 percent.

He pointed out, however, that money does

Fire not withstanding, CV tennis ranch going strong

By DAVID LELAND

IT MAY be a little premature to expect to discover the next Bjorn Borg or Chris Evert, but at John Gardiner's Tennis Ranch anything can happen.

Located near Carmel Valley Village, the ranch this week entered its 32nd year of instruction for students ranging from the ages of 9-16.

"You have to keep the sense of competition going all the time so you can better yourself," says Gardiner, as he surveys the mid-morning instruction taking place on one of the 14 championship courts.

'Everything about it (ranch) is the type of life you would like your child to learn. It does more than teach tennis — it teaches the students a way to live.'

Gardiner takes credit for opening the first tennis camp in the world back in 1957. He now operates similar facilities in Scottsdale and Sedona, Ariz., and is building another in the San Diego area.

Business has certainly taken precedence over fun for Gardiner.

"I only play (tennis) three times a week," he laments. "I've got four places — all I get are telephone calls."

It should be noted that because a fire destroyed the clubhouse area of the world-famous resort in early June, the adult tennis facility will not reopen until next spring, according to Monique Gardiner.

While many recognize Gardiner's Tennis Ranch because of the long list of luminaries who have frequented the resort through the years, the young people's camp is somewhat less glamorous.

Take, for example, the spartan barracks where the students sleep.

The luxury suites which line the pool area stand vacant, with the kids sleeping dormitory fashion on bunkbeds in sleeping bags.

Also, the loss of the clubhouse took with it the gourmet cooking facilities and exotic menus.

That's not to say the kids mind the traditional bill of fare.

"I like the food because it's simple," says Chris Cronk, 11, at the school for his third year.

Although healthful fruits and vegetables are also served, Cronk says he especially enjoys the sugar-coated cereal, pancakes and pizza, which he is served at home only "once in a while."

This summer there will be three sessions, each with 100 young people (about evenly divided between boys and girls). They are not here to luxuriate; they are here to learn tennis.

"Everytime I came here for camp I would always return and be better than my friends, who were better than me before I went camp," says Jenna Eddy, 17.

Eddy, who lives in Danville, will attend the University of Arizona as a freshman this fall. She attended four tennis camps prior to this year and now works as a teacher/counselor.

Twenty-four college students from around the country serve as teacher/counselors at the school, with nine professional players also on staff.

To say that the student body is eclectic would be an understatement, with kids coming from diverse locales such as Spain, England, Dallas, Texas, Grosse Point, Mich. and Wyoming, to name a few.

"They make friends for a lifetime here," says Monique Gardiner, who adds that many students form pen pal alliances that last long after they have left the camp.

Gardiner relies on word of mouth to tout the school — it works. This summer the camp was forced to turn away about 100 applicants for the sessions, which costs each student about $1,800.

GARDINER IS quick to point out that the purpose of the camp is not necessarily to promote fierce competition.

With high school tennis becoming more popular, he leaves much of that task to the schools.

"We try to teach a game for a lifetime," he says, "rather than (teaching) competition techniques."

Students are given 80 hours of instruction concerned with the teaching of fundamentals, and play more than 100 matches during the three-week session.

Gardiner says competition is still a by-product of the camp.

"The more matches they play, the less butterflies," he says. "This is not a babysitting camp."

Many students realize that tennis provides an ideal venue for forming relationships and continuing an active social life.

"I'd like to grow up to play pretty well," says Cronk. "But I have other ideas."

He says his main interest lies in architectural drawing.

"I'd like to be in construction and maybe a secretary," he says. "Because I like to arrange things."

When asked if he wanted to be a professional tennis player when he becomes an adult, Justine Rockefeller, 9, of Washington, D.C., answered, "Not really. I just want to play a lot when I grow up."

Camp physician Dr. Robert Albo, who also works for the Los Angeles Raiders and Golden State Warriors, adds that the strict schedule at the ranch enhances the students' lives.

"Everything about it (ranch) is the type of life you would like your child to learn," he says. "It does more than teach tennis — it teaches the students a way to live."

Past chairman still influential

heavily toward employing objective standards rather than leaving most decisions up to design review.

In the past, Dahlstrand has made the point that design review can be very subjective and, while it can eliminate undesirable houses, it can also eliminate unique creations. Designs by committee lead to mediocrity not excellence, he feels.

Also, a designer needs guidelines to base his or her project on.

Furthermore, Dahlstrand believes the floor area allowed on a building site is too much for the Carmel lots which are below-average in size compared to other California cities.

He agrees with those who say a smaller house does not necessarily mean a better design, but believes there are other factors at work.

"The sheer size which these are built allows less open space. A large home isn't bad when it is surrounded by a lot of cottages, but when you get them all in a row, that is an altogether different matter," he said.

Will the homes built on Carmel's smaller-than-average lots eventually create a Balboa Island-type effect — houses squeezed together with little or no space between them?

"I don't think so. The people and government are far too 'cranky' to allow that to happen," he said, with a fond chuckle.

Many of the recently constructed homes that have generated grumbles about the planning commission's policies, Dahlstrand said, "probably got through (our review), for one thing, because there was not enough information."

To help alleviate that problem, the commission has instructed the staff to get more data for the commissioners, such as samples of exterior materials. That would help the them know exactly what they are approving — what sounds good on paper may turn out to be something other than what commissioners had in mind.

"For example, stone veneer can be all kinds of things," he said.

There are reasons that homes are changing in the residential district and why it is gaining all the attention, he added.

"In the past, these were built as vacation homes or for some other purpose than year-round living," he said.

That has begun to change.

"In the R-1 district, property is so valuable, (building) has become a commercial venture. People who now move here are from some other part of the country with different tastes and are using the homes year-round. Twenty to 25 years ago, it was just a vacation place," Dahlstrand said.

"The (residential district) is where the biggest change is taking place. There were very, very few projects approved in the commercial district and some had been in development for a long time. By contrast, the residential district has quite a few projects and an enormous number of speculation buildings. It's more than anyone can remember," he said.

ONE PROJECT that helped spur interest in the residential district building is the Countess Kinnoull estate between Torres Street and Junipero Avenue at 11th Avenue. Once it was divided into its legal lots of record it was "snapped up" by builders, he said, most for spec homes.

But the tug between how to regulate changes, no matter whether it is in the commercial or residential district, has been going on for years, Dahlstrand said.

"The basic process the planning commission is dealing with has been pretty much the same for decades," he said. "What crops up now and then is the issue of fairness to the applicant and the public and making sure the commissioner is doing his job. It is easy to be heavy-handed and arbitrary."

Dahlstrand disagrees with the contention that he and the other two architects on the commission are hesitant to impose their judgments on other designers.

"That is not true. Because of my profession, I don't want to use that as a club on people. I have very strong likes and dislikes, but it is important that I not impose mine on everyone," Dahlstrand said.

Other controversies that have erupted during his term on the commission and as chairman include interpretations of the general plan on such issues as the R-4 district and the general plan's dictates on new hotels, motels and condominiums.

Dahlstrand does not find the ambiguities in the general plan others have found in their interpretations.

"I think some of the ambiguity is manufactured by the people looking at it. I think whenever anyone reads the plan, there is a tendency to interpret it to our own ends," he said.

Petition seeks limit to hookups

pose on the construction industry and related businesses outweighs the amount of water that is used by new construction, 100 acre feet to 120 acre feet annually. The peninsula uses almost 18,000 acre feet annually, though it is expected to have cut back to about 15,000 to 16,000 acre feet because of rationing.

Since January, when 20-percent rationing was imposed, the district has issued permits that add up to 52 acre feet of water, Lombardo said.

"If it was 200 acre feet, then that would be too much for the system to bear," he said.

Additionally, the board's required retrofit of business water fixtures, installation of low-flow fixtures when a house is sold and conservation effort is expected to gain the peninsula 300 acre feet of water a year. That gives the district a net increase, Lombardo said.

"It is a tradeoff. We are not endangering the community, but at the same time (no limits on permits) gives fairness to those who make their living from the building trades."

"We are in better shape this year than last year at this time," he said. "According to California-American Water Co., we will have as much in storage as last December. This district has done a fine job of managing the water."

If the district needs to go to Phase IV rationing, a 40 percent cutback, then a moratorium will be "very strongly considered."

The limit on permits disguises the real intention of some of those involved — a way to stop growth, he said.

Given what he believes is a small amount of water involved, Lombardo said, "I have to ask, what is there a petition for?" though he would not "want to admonish anybody" for an anti-growth stance.

"We've heard the same people before at the water board meetings. In fact, someone has mentioned that they could just number their speeches and stand up and say this is number six. It would save time."

Sensing danger, his friend, Qian, took it upon herself to book Holmgren into the Friendship Hotel, located about five miles from Tiananmen Square.

Holmgren says one of the major incidents that sparked student unrest occurred on June 2, when a policeman swerved his jeep and killed four people on bikes.

People rioted into the night, burning buses, making speeches and gathering support.

Saturday morning, Holmgren and his friends travelled by subway to a Kentucky Fried Chicken outlet near Tiananmen Square. The expedition was non-eventful.

Saturday about 11 p.m., however, government troops marched on the square from both sides of the city and took it by force.

The official government account of the number of killed and wounded stands at about 400, and mostly soldiers, officials claim.

Holmgren disagrees.

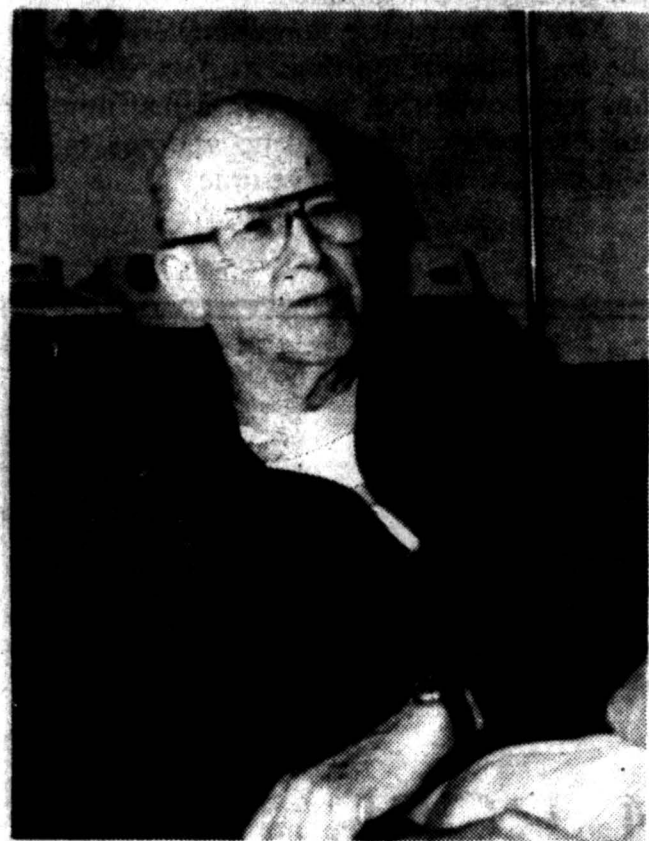

"I am convinced, after talking to many, many people, that the number killed is between 2,500 and 3,000 (students)," says Holmgren. "It was really brutal."

Holmgren adds that about 7,000 students were wounded, with many lying on the hospital floors awaiting medical attention.

Hospitals put out emergency calls for blood and bandages.

Even though his friend, Qian, telephoned him to say the street outside her home near the square looked like a battleground, Holmgren said the open-air markets outside his hotel still sold fruits and vegetables and operated as if things were normal.

Sunday night hotel personnel advised foreigners to stay indoors after 5 p.m.

CARMEL RESIDENT Rod Holmgren recently returned from Beijing where he witnessed firsthand the military crackdown on Chinese students seeking democratic reforms. (David Leland photo.)

AND WHILE it has been reported that most of the demonstrators were students, Holmgren says that the majority of people in the city strongly supported their cause.

He cited one example of when a bus driver asked passengers to disembark so he could ferry students to a demonstration. Not one passenger objected to the inconvenience.

"There was wide public support for what the students were doing," says Holmgren.

On Monday, June 5, foreigners at the hotel gathered to form a statement objecting to the way the government was handling the situation.

"The general view was that the government overreacted all the way down the line," says Holmgren.

But the next day it was decided that the students might suffer from such a message, and the idea was abandoned.

Tuesday night Americans met and compiled a list of who was in the hotel and what their passport numbers and room numbers were in case of emergency.

They awaited word from the U.S. Embassy in Beijing.

"By then contact to the embassy was difficult, but not impossible," remembers Holmgren, who says about 6,000 Americans were in Beijing at the time.

Holmgren knew time was limited. "By that time I had begun to pack my stuff," he says.

Wednesday morning at 9:30 the embassy sent several vans to take Americans to the airport.

By that time, Holmgren said, taxi drivers who were willing to brave the dangerous trip to the airport were charging $100 instead of the regular $5 fare for a distance of about 10 miles.

After standing in line for six hours, Holmgren managed to get a flight to Hong Kong. The next day he flew to the United States and was picked up by his son, Jack, at the San Francisco airport.

Holmgren says he hopes citizens of the world realize just what the students are demanding.

"They have made it clear that they do not want to overthrow communism," says Holmgren, referring to the students repeated calls for democracy.

"By democracy they mean the kind of election reform pursued by Gorbachev," he says. "A choice of candidates in all levels of government."

Other student demands Holmgren listed include:

- A free press, with prompt reporting. Some events are withheld from the public for up to six months.

- The requirement that all government officials state their annual income and how much money they have saved.

- The removal of strongmen, Premier Li Peng and senior leader Deng Xiaoping.

- Freedom to travel within China and abroad.

It appears that there is a mood of optimism in China even though students have suffered an incredible tragedy.

Holmgren likes to quote his friend Qian, who, after student demonstrations took place on the Friday before the massacre said: "Things will never be the same regardless of what happens in the square. For the first time in history the Chinese people have sipped the sweet taste of freedom."

Life is a beach?

Now THAT summer is approaching we tend to find ourselves spending more time on the beach with those precious, vivacious kids of ours. Even our husbands think it's a good choice to relax by the beach after they've seen a few bikini-clad women twisting their gorgeous bodies in an attractive fashion as they jog slowly along the water.

The beach becomes the main playground for the summer. Never before has your child showed so much interest in sports as he packs the football, basketball, tennis ball, baseball and soccer ball into the car for the short journey to the beach. You would almost think that the beach was Candlestick Park as your kid non-deliberately kicks sand into serious sunbathers' faces as he steals second base. Once in a while a tennis ball is lost to a Golden Retriever who refuses to give it up.

So what is the purpose of the beach? One of my friends usually comes down with a six-pack of Coors and shoes her kids out to the water telling them not to return before dark. She then sits on her compact lawn chair, turns on the radio and dreams of being in Bora Bora.

Another friend brings her kids, two belly boards, six towels, pillows, plenty of beer, 12 sandwiches from the corner deli, grapes, plums, apples and plenty of water. After applying super sun block #46 all over the kids, she then encourages them to get lost. They grab their belly boards and run out to sea only to return in five minutes because it's too cold.

Next on the agenda is sports. Football games vary depending on who gets hurt and the condition of the hurt. If it's a sprained ankle then it's time to sit out and beg for food, even though the injured party ate only a half hour ago. After the food is consumed you order them to stay out of the water. Here is where the kids get irate and start complaining about boredom. By now you wish you had stayed at home.

You now suggest that they take a long walk and see how much loose change they can find on the overcrowded beach. After 30 minutes they return clutching 50 cents in their little hands. You congratulate them on their findings and ask them for the money so you can feed the meter. You then make another suggestion. Collect all the perfect sea shells and driftwood. This should take an hour. You open a can of beer, chuckle to yourself as you watch the kids stoop every half-second as they collect the items mentioned above.

Your husband has fallen into a deep coma. His back is bright red and you're afraid to roll him over because he might scream out in pain. (So you let him burn instead.)

Your other friends arrive late carrying everything from a six-pack to a soccer ball. After six trips back and forth to the car, they are finally settled on the warm sand. Naturally their kids are starving so you watch them devour four submarine sandwiches in eight seconds.

You look up at the sky and notice clouds forming. The wind begins to stir and you witness paper cups, napkins and aluminum foil quickly inching their way off your blanketed territory. You know the day is almost over.

An hour later your kids return with a bag of shells, driftwood and three bikini tops that they claim they found near the driftwood. Your friend's kids and yours finally go back into the water. You relax once more and have small talk with your friends.

It's getting late and the sun is totally behind the clouds. You summon the children out of the water. They become irate once more, insisting that the water is warm and that you are spoiling their fun. Your husband is finally moving and yells out in pain as he slips his T-shirt over his head.

After a long 45 minutes of collecting all the debris and sports equipment you finally head home. You are more exhausted than when you arrived. Your kids beg you to take them to the beach tomorrow. You tell them you have to think it over and that you'll let them know next month!!

Bark beetle attacking vulnerable Monterey pines

By Gary Kelly
City Forester

THE CARMEL area is famous for its magnificent scenery, and most residents are here out of an experience of its natural beauty.

One of the primary sources of aesthetic pleasure is the tall, elegant Monterey pine. It has a highly successful enemy, however, in the form of the Red Turpentine Bark Beetle. This innocuous looking creature, approximately 1/4-inch - 1/2-inch-long, attacks many of our pines each year. Yet, even with attempts at treatment, nearly 25 percent of the trees hit by this pest die and have to be removed.

What the Bark Beetle Does

How can this small insect kill such a huge plant? Inside the tough, armor-like bark of the pine tree lies the living, growing portion. This moist tender layer is called the cambium, and is where all growth and metabolic activity occurs. Nutrients, water and energy essential to the tree's growth and survival travel up and down this layer, as though on a kind of tubular freeway.

Any time a tree is "girdled," that is, has a strip of the cambium killed around the entire circumference, it dies. The Bark Beetle can accomplish this girdling process quite effectively. It chews its way into the tree, releasing pheromones (sexual attractants), with which it draws a mate.

When it reaches the soft juicy cambium, it begins to gnaw a vertical "gallery." Its potential mate joins it in this gallery, and together they prepare the "nuptial chamber," a wider portion of the gallery where their eggs are laid, fertilized and eventually hatched into larvae.

These larval forms are the real culprits. Munching their way as they go through several stages of development, they create horizontal rather than vertical galleries. Keeping in mind that hundreds of eggs may be laid in a single nuptial chamber, and that multiple beetle entries (or "hits"), on a single tree are common, it is easy to see how a tree can be girdled.

Of course, beetle generations will leave a tree once they have killed it, if not before, and move on to other trees. Obviously, the primary sources of these insects are untreated trees. For this reason, as well as the desire to save presently infested trees, the Carmel Forest and Beach Department urges property owners to learn how to spot the indications of infestation and how to then treat these trees.

Indications of Bark Beetle Presence

It is quite simple to spot a tree that has been infested, or hit, by the Bark Beetle. There will be a pinkish-colored sawdust or fine popcorn-like material in a small heap, usually somewhere around the base of the pine. This is called "frass," and is the digested wood from the beetle's trail.

If one looks up from the frass, a "pitch tube" entrance hole marker can often be discovered. This is a small clump (about 3/4-inch in diameter) of sticky material, ranging in color from light pink to brownish-red, with a small hole in the center. Beetle presence over a short time will also cause yellowing and death of individual branches.

Removal of the Bark Beetle

The procedure for removal is quite simple. Once you have located the pitch tube, chip away the surrounding bark with a chisel and mallet, taking care that no more is chipped away than is necessary. Keep chipping into the tree until you locate the moist whitish cambium layer, and then begin looking for the gallery, a shallow 1/2-inch wide channel lined with a damp, reddish frass.

The beetle will be in its gallery, so chip along it until you locate the reddish-brown insect. There will usually be two beetles present. To be certain there are no more insects, chip away the bark until you have reached both ends of the gallery. If the beetles are not found, removed and killed, you may not have solved the problem.

Seal with a pruning compound after chipping the wound into an oval shape for optimum healing. After doing this to all suspected hits, spray the tree with a Bark Beetle specific pesticide mixture for protection against further invasions. If you carry out this procedure, you will probably save the tree.

Any questions regarding the procedure, or the problem itself, may be directed to City Forester Gary Kelly at 624-3543. Remember, if your tree is left untreated, it will probably become a source of infestation to surrounding pines and may die.

CUSD board meets tonight

THE CARMEL Unified School District Board of Trustees will meet tonight (Thursday, June 22), at 7 in the library of Carmel Middle School.

The board will hear:

- School improvement plans for the 1989-90 school year at River, Tularcitos and Captain Cooper schools.
- Policy regarding infectious diseases.
- Consider leasing the Carmel Valley Park District a portion of Tularcitos School for access purposes.
- Hear a tentative budget for the coming school year.

The board meets monthly to discuss policy matters and hear oral reports. The next meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. Thursday, July 13, in the library at Carmel Middle School.

Bulldozers to be moving sand on Carmel Beach

WORK CREWS, including a bulldozer, will be re-establishing the sand dunes along Carmel Beach June 19 through 23, according to city officials.

Gary Kelly, city forester, said the city's Forest and Beach Department has contracted with Granite Construction Co. to do the annual work, which basically involves a bulldozer pushing sand from the water's edge to the top of the bluffs to re-establish the bluffs.

"If you plan to be on the beach while the bulldozer is in operation, please stay clear for your safety," Kelly said.

For more information call Kelly at 624-3543.

Value of the valley escaped early Spaniards

By DAVID LELAND

WHILE IT may seem hard to believe, Spaniards occupying the peninsula during the late 18th century found the lush Carmel Valley to be a barren place.

In fact, during those years, the valley was used principally as a passageway between the Carmel Mission and San Antonio Mission, located slightly south of King City.

"It was termed useless," says Carmel Valley historian Marvin Pylate. "They were looking for grazing land — (but) they may have hit the area during a drought."

At any rate, the land that served cattle ranchers for so many years after Spanish

'The Indians were mistreated by the soldiers, but the church had no control over the soldiers. They (soldiers) would not work — they would not do anything.'

— Marvin Pylate
— Valley historian

occupation went idle during that period.

Pylate is one of several members of the Carmel Valley Historical Society who devotes considerable time piecing together the valley's past.

Since retiring from military service in 1964, Pylate has spent his days studying the past through various land documents.

For the past dozen years he has also taken to hiking through the hills searching for caves and lost mines.

The Spanish involvement in the area officially took place between the years of 1770 and 1822.

At no time, however, was their presence overwhelming. In 1780 there were only 200 Spaniards spread out between San Diego and Monterey.

Forty years later that number statewide had risen to only 4,000, which included Mexicans still loyal to Spain.

In Carmel Valley, real estate belonged to only a handful of Spanish land barons, with Boronda and Gomez adobes being the only two structures present.

History is sketchy, at best, concerning the Spanish era in the valley, Pylate says. And what little there is should be subject to close scrutiny.

For example, Ann Fisher's book entitled Cathedral in the Sun, which discusses history in the area during the Spanish period, is unrealistic, according to Pylate.

"It's a great book," he says. "But Ann Fisher says she took a great deal of liberty with names and facts."

Another misimpression regarding the Spanish era involves the alleged mistreatment of the Indians by Catholic priests.

"I have accounts from eight or nine sources," says Pylate, "and only one says they were bad."

Pylate is referring to members of the Catholic church, who set up camp at the Carmel Mission and attempted to bring local Indians into their faith.

In fact, he says, the missions were originally on a 10-year plan, with Indians supposedly being ready to become independent at the end of that time.

It didn't work that way, he says, because the Spanish military contingent, which was a slovenly and cruel bunch, wouldn't let the Indians go.

The soldiers kept the Indians close to the mission, where the natives would fish and farm. That way the soldiers were able to be well fed with little effort.

"The Indians were mistreated by the soldiers, but the church had no control over the soldiers," Pylate explains. "They (soldiers) would not work — they would not do anything."

Indeed Pylate's views are backed up by British explorer George Vancouver in a book called California: A Literary Chronicle.

"The last mentioned order (of Spanish soldiers) do nothing, in the strictest expression, for they neither till, sow nor reap, but wholly depend upon the labor of the inhabitants of the missions and pueblos for their subsistence and the common necessities of life," Vancouver writes.

In retrospect, it may not have been the lack of grazing land that put Carmel Valley on hold for almost 50 years, but the limited motivation of a small group of soldiers.

DURING THE Spanish occupation of the Monterey Peninsula, the Boronda adobe on the Rancho Los Laureles was one of the few buildings existing. The Spanish viewed Carmel Valley as a useless and barren place.

Arts and crafts to be featured at Centennial

VALLEY ARTISTS and artisans will have an opportunity to show and sell their work as part of the Centennial three-day celebration planned for Aug. 4 to 6.

Arrangements for special booth space to accommodate displays and exhibits of art have been completed according to Bud McDonald, booths chairman.

Booths can now be reserved by calling McDonald at 659-3568. Information concerning arts and crafts exhibits can be had by calling 659-5232. Booths have already been reserved, McDonald said, for displays of jewelry, dolls and clothing.

Deadline for arts and crafts exhibit reservations is July 31. Thirty booths or spaces measuring 10 by 10 feet have been reserved for artisans' exhibits.

Dunk tank to be part of festivities

CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION visitors Aug. 5 and 6 will have a chance to dunk their favorite celebrities in water at one of the more than 40 booths being planned.

The "dunk tank" will be installed on the Community Center or Tulareitos School grounds and will feature valley personalities as targets. A baseball thrown at a marked target will automatically, if the hurler's aim is good, drop the celebrity into a tankful of water.

Bud McDonald, booths chairman, said valley celebrity figures, perhaps even including some members of the Monterey Peninsula Water Management Board, are being invited to participate.

Bumper stickers still available

BY POPULAR demand a new supply of bumper stickers for the Carmel Valley Centennial have been printed after the first 500 "went like hot cakes," according to Randy Randazzo, Centennial committee chairman.

The stickers read: "Carmel Valley Centennial - 1889 - 1989 - August 4, 5, 6, 1989." The stickers are available free at six valley locations: Carmel Valley Market, Village Self-Storage, Kasey's, Coastal Savings, Wagon Wheel Restaurant, and Porter-Marquard Realty.

Valley residents are urged to display them to publicize the Centennial and attendance at the three-day celebration in August.

nial celebration....a ride in an authentic replica of an early-day stagecoach.

This event will be offered as a special feature of Sunday's program, Aug. 6.

The stagecoach is furnished by Stonepine Resort, which has gone to great pains to reproduce an authentic version of early day stagecoaches which plied the backroads of the 1880 period. The same stagecoach will be used in a re-creation of an early-day run to the then-existing post office in Carmel Valley Village at the present White Oak Plaza location.

The re-creation will occur Friday afternoon, Aug. 4, when the Postmaster General of the United States, Anthony Frank, will be present for a special ceremony commemorating Carmel Valley's first 100 years.

Summer classes at valley center now available

A VARIETY of classes for youths will be offered this summer at the Carmel Valley Community Youth Center.

Each class has different sessions and fees. All classes have maximum enrollment figures. Pre-register in person at the center located on Ford Road in the valley or by mail (CVCYC, PO Box 124, Carmel Valley, 93924).

Concert on the Green presented

Enjoy a Sunday afternoon the old-fashioned way — come to a band concert on the green. The Cultural Arts Commission of the City of Monterey presents the Fort Ord Band on Sunday, June 25, on the lawn in front of Colton Hall, on Pacific Street between Madison and Jefferson. Concert time is 2 to 3 p.m.

Bring your family early to get a great spot on the lawn and enjoy a picnic while you wait for the lively, toe-tapping music of the Fort Ord Band. Lawn chairs and picnic blankets will make your wait more comfortable so bring these along as well. Admission is free.

Free tours offered of observatory

Free tours of the Oliver Observing Station run by the Monterey Institute for Research in Astronomy at Chews Ridge will be offered on selected Sundays at 1:30 and 3:30 p.m.

Founded in 1972, MIRA is one of very few independent professional observatories in the United States. MIRA's 36-inch telescope, state-of-the-art instrumentation and unusual observatory building combine to permit the rapid acquisition of high quality data. MIRA astronomers are engaged in a wide range of projects, from the study of the birth, life and death of stars, to comets sweeping through the solar system.

Tours are set July 9, Aug. 13, Sept. 10 and Oct. 15 (weather permitting).

Reservations must be made since space is limited. To make a reservation and obtain map and instructions, call 375-3220.

ONE OF the highlights of Carmel Valley's Centennial will be a ride on a Wild West stagecoach, furnished by Stonepine Resort, which has (thanks to Tom and Debby Harris), recreated an authentic version of the

CVPOA to celebrate 40th June 28

CELEBRATING FORTY years of nurturing, protecting and loving Carmel Valley, the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association on June 28 will hold its "best ever" membership meeting and birthday party, said its president Max Chaplin.

The meeting will start at 7:30 p.m. at Hidden Valley Seminars and will feature three speakers on the subject of "Past, Present and Prologue."

The "past" portion of the program will go back before CVPOA's beginnings to perhaps as long as 100,000 years ago when recently uncovered facts place Indian tribes on the Monterey Peninsula according to Dr. Gary Breschini, Salinas archaeologist, and popular lecturer. Breschini spoke several years ago on Carmel Valley's Indian history to a packed audience of CVPOA members.

He will discuss recent research and archaeological digs which place Indians in the area much earlier than has been previously documented. Breschini has been field director or principal investigator for more than 1,400 archaeological reconnaissance, excavation and research projects and is an expert in cultural resource management and rock art documentation.

Chaplin will be the second speaker dealing with CVPOA's achievements of the past, its current programs and philosophy, its hopes and aspirations for the future and for the valley environment and growth.

The evening's third speaker will lift the veil on the future. He is Stephen Williams, regional planner for the Association of Monterey Bay Area Governments (AMBAG), who will look ahead and describe changes taking place in factors shaping land use and development in the Valley. He will discuss demographics, economics, computer technology, transportation and resource use as they affect Carmel Valley, and then suggest ways in which those factors may bear upon land use in the Valley.

Williams has a masters degree in city and regional planning from California Polytechnic State University San Luis Obispo and has been a member of AMBAG's planning department since 1985.

"People who own property and who live in Carmel Valley will find this program to be of both timely and long range interest and therefore as a public service CVPOA is opening the meeting to the general public free of charge as well as to all CVPOA members," Chaplin said. He urged all members to attend as one of the benefits of membership in the organization which regularly represents Valley property owner interests before the county board of supervisors, planning commission and other governmental and civic bodies.

Chaplin said some special birthday activities are planned as part of the 40th year observance.

Collectors item

CARMEL VALLEY'S Centennial belt buckle is almost sure to become a collector's item because only 100 of the handcrafted silver and gold buckles are being made by Ken Ramoni, well-known Carmel Valley silversmith. The buckles are individually numbered and inscribed with the owner's name and are available on a first-come, first-served basis for $250 each. The buckles measure 4 1/2 by 3 1/2 inches. Proceeds from the sale of the buckle will go towards financing the Centennial celebration. Orders may be placed through Stew Clough, Centennial buckle-up chairman at 659-2411. (Marilyn Raynes photo.)

Beards, buckles, bonnets to highlight Centennial

BEARDS, BONNETS, bikes and belt buckles took center stage this week as planning for Carmel Valley's observance of its centennial celebration in August picked up speed and scope.

Randy Randazzo, centennial chairman, said well over a dozen committees and many civic and club organizations are hard at work developing plans for the birthday bash designed to offer "something for everybody" in the valley. Dates for the celebration are Aug. 4 to 6.

Beards for men will be the "in" thing during the centennial's three-day celebration. Valley males are encouraged and urged, Randazzo said, to grow beards in the frontier style of the 1889 period. Judging will take into account such features as length, fullness and color (no tinting allowed). Prizes will be given for the winners. All entrants must start with clean shaven chins. Rules and registration plans for the contest will be announced shortly.

But beards are only the beginning. For valley women bonnets will be the rage as the ladies are invited to create and wear bonnets of the 1889 days or more recent times. Judging will be on design, style and how faithful the bonnets are to the early day period. Handcrafted bonnets are especially encouraged. Age of entrants can range from 3 to 125 years, the bonnet committee declared.

For the younger element there will be a decorated bike contest with prizes going to the most colorful, the best western style bike, the most modern, and the most antique. Bikers will be invited to display their handiwork as participants in the centennial parade.

Belt buckles commemorating the centennial and handcrafted personally and individually for the occasion are selling like hot cakes according to Stew Clough, buckle-up chairman. Hand-designed of silver and gold with the individual owner's name, or a name of his or her choice, the buckles will measure 4 1/2 by 3 1/2 inches and will sell for $250 each. Proceeds will go toward financing the centennial costs. Clough said more than 20 reservations already are in hand, and, by popular demand, consideration is being given to designing a smaller buckle for women. He predicted the buckles, designed and executed by Ken Ramoni, well-known Carmel Valley silversmith, will be collector's items.

Adding to the centennial's outreach to all residents will be a pet contest for both warm-blooded and cold-blooded pets and a zucchini contest with judging on such attributes as length, size, weight, color and firmness...no age restrictions on Valleyites who choose to enter their garden triumphs.

But contests are only one part of the planning, Randazzo emphasized. The three-day festival will be serenaded with the sound of music: a dance band for the centennial queen's coronation on Friday night, a wide variety of bands on Saturday offering jazz, bluegrass, dance music from the '40s and '50s, and country-western. Saturday night will feature a street dance in a roped-off Delfino Plaza dedicated to merriment and a carnival atmosphere. Gene Erner heads a committee auditioning and arranging for music.

Just so the merriment factor will not get out of hand, a committee headed by Bud McDonald, one of many volunteer Kiwanis Club members engaged in the planning effort, is arranging for tight security for the some 40 food, carnival and arts and crafts booths located at the Community Center, the Tularcitos school grounds and Delfino Place. Reservations for booths by civic, club and other groups are on a first come first serve basis, McDonald said, and he urged reservations be made early by calling him at 659-3568.

The centennial parade which will be a highlight of the Saturday morning beginning for a weekend of high frivolity will be led by the Watsonville Band, Randazzo said. The 90-musician marching and concert band is world-renowned, having performed throughout the United States, Europe, and the South Pacific. It also features a 16-woman color guard. Rep. Leon Panetta has been invited to serve as the parade's grand marshal, his Washington schedule permitting.

To publicize centennial doings bumper stickers are being printed and, through the courtesy of an anonymous donor, will be available free of charge and for the asking at Carmel Valley Market, Kasey's in the village, and Joseph's Deli.

Valley artists and artisans will have an opportunity to display their work, including photography, through a series of booths being arranged by Rod Mills, chairman of the arts and crafts committee. Plans shortly will be announced for arranging displays and securing entry information, he said.

SENIOR LINE

By 'Les' Lesser

The new kid on the block

THIS IS my first article as the inheritor of Bill Schneider's Senior Line. Bill had a great deal of expertise in the field of Social Security since he worked in the Social Security Administration for many years before retiring.

My expertise is in the field of economics, health care, insurance, financial, and retirement planning. I will keep you up to date in these areas as current issues arise that affect your everyday living. Like Bill, I invite your letters or inquiries.

Major issues facing older Americans are housing, health care, nutrition and economic problems. There are many legislative bills at the state and national levels addressing these issues.

The hottest current issue for many older Americans is health care. The new Medicare Catastrophic Bill is both confusing and misunderstood for many people. In addition to the benefits provided by it, the surcharge has angered many Medicare recipients. There is some legislative activity in Washington to examine the surcharge.

There is also activity in the field of Long Term Care but the federal deficit has a great influence on how we will solve this problem. I will report on these issues as they develop.

If you need information on senior affairs, write Senior Line, c/o Area Agency on Aging, 1184 Monroe Street, Suite 10, Salinas, California 93906 or call (408) 757-5905 in the Salinas area or 372-7662 from the Monterey Peninsula. Senior Line needs your name, address, and phone number but these will be withheld on request. Printed letters may be edited to meet space requirements.

Call for entries in biennial competitive

"The New American Landscape" is the theme of the Pacific Grove Art Center's fourth biennial competitive for Central Coast artists living and/or maintaining their studios in five counties: Santa Clara, San Benito, Santa Cruz, Monterey and San Luis Obispo. All media and styles, with the exception of video (electronic), and performance art, will be considered.

Up to three entries, each by duplicate slide, can be entered at $8 per entry. Cash and exhibition awards will be announced at opening night, Sept. 22.

Jurors are Josine Ianco Starrels, chief curator for Long Beach Museum of Art and National Endowment for the Arts panelist; and Fred Martin, ArtWeek editorialist and department head at San Francisco Art Institute.

To receive official prospectus/application, send postcard request with complete name and mailing address to: Biennial, PO Box 633, Pacific Grove, CA 93950.

Park for free in Monterey

The City of Monterey has removed the one-hour parking meters from the first floor of the West Custom House Garage located at Tyler and Del Monte streets downtown. The first floor has been converted to a free one-hour maximum time limit, with the exception of two 24-minute and one handicapped space.

TAKE MY WORD FOR IT

By D. Patrick Gallagher

It's not my fault

LAST YEAR I wrote a column criticizing television writers for creating five characters who were Irish and only one of whom, a priest, was Catholic. I was promptly criticized in turn in a letter to the editor for making an assumption that the Irish are overwhelmingly Catholic (I can't imagine where I got such an idea). Besides, my column had to do with the general lack of education (the word ignorance appeared in my column), among American TV writers and their laziness where research is required.

This year I wrote a St. Patrick's Day column and mentioned, mentioned mind you, that Irish Catholics had suffered at the hands of prejudice from the English in Ireland and again when they came to America (I think I read that in a history book somewhere). Immediately, a letter to the editor accused me of "Protestant bashing." Then another columnist criticized me in another letter to the editor for a mistake made by my first critic and some lady attacked me in another letter to the editor because she thought King James was such a neat guy! Golly, it got so I wouldn't leave the house without ducking!

A few weeks ago I wrote a column on the Second Amendment to the Constitution and said the NRA was unreasonable and I may, may mind you, have implied they lie to their members and the public about the meaning of that amendment. Now a letter has arrived filled with four-letter words and gross insults, which takes some liberties with my parentage and the legitimacy of my birth. It is unsigned. That makes it difficult for me to thank the writer of this letter, because unlike all the other nasty letters directed at me, he didn't publish it in the letters to the editor section. It is such a relief to deal with a gentleman, or lady, as the case may be.

Based on this experience, I think it is time for me to borrow an excuse from humorist Dave Barry and tell you that all the nasty and offensive things you read in my columns are not put in there by me. It's not my fault!

Somewhere in the newsroom of the Pine Cone there is a person...we don't know who it is yet, but an investigation is underway and I believe Richard Thornburgh is being called in...and this person sneaks into the copy room on Wednesday evenings and changes my columns and puts in all those terrible comments about King Soft-in-the-Head, slobbering TV writers and NRA officials who shoot themselves in the foot. I never said or implied those things. Nor is it my fault the Moral Majority went out of business.

Now you may be asking yourself, if we know this person who changes my columns comes in on Wednesday night, why don't we hide under the desk or something and capture him? Well I would, except the Black Adder is on Wednesdays and I'd hate to miss an episode. You may, however, ask why someone at the Pine Cone doesn't hide under a desk or something and capture him? That's a good question. Could it be there is some sort of conspiracy among the editors, who have had to receive and print all these nasty letters about my columns, to discredit me? It certainly is food for thought. Don't misunderstand, I'm not paranoid just because I think everyone is trying to get me.

There are certain things, of course, I would never do. I would never refer to our past president as "Cowboy Boob." Now someone might sneak into the copy room, maybe on a Wednesday night, and put that into my column, but I wouldn't write it. In spite of the fact that this was a man who called Diana "Princess David," and addressed "Sugar Ray's" wife as "Mrs. Ray," or who said at a press conference he was reasonably sure missiles launched from a submarine could be called back, I would never insult so august a figure as a man with the good sense to fall asleep during cabinet meetings. For years, Ronnie told us "I'm not detached, I'm in charge!" Then along came Iran-Contra and he said "I wasn't in charge; I'm detached," and I for one believe him.

Another thing I believe is important for you to understand is I do not make mistakes in grammar or spelling in my columns. I am an expert in these subjects, which is why I write the column and you don't, and experts don't make mistakes. I got this job after a staff meeting in It's Bud's Pub one night when the publisher was looking for a way to enhance the already dynamic format of the paper. He said "I know what we'll do. We'll get some guy to write a language column and we'll make sure we pick someone with no background in English. Maybe we'll get a history major or, better yet, a salesman." Actually, that's how William Safire got his job on the New York Times. No kidding, except I don't think they were in It's Bud's Pub, but maybe.

Anyway, this same person who puts all the objectionable statements into my columns also changes the spelling of words and creates grammatical errors to embarrass me. Really.

I should also say, in response to some of your letters, some of the things I said during the presidential campaign were not meant to be taken literally, such as the time I compared George Bush to oatmeal. I did not mean he was actually oatmeal, Ms. D of Carmel. As to the letter from Mr. B of Monterey, I am always open to criticism, however I think reasonable people ought to be able to disagree without the use of words such as "dumb bunny" and "airhead." So remember, it's not my fault.

It's such a relief to have that off my mind.

(Editor's Note: Mr. Gallagher of Carmel regularly provides us with explanations of etymology, the history of constitutional terms, and errors in everyday English. For questions or comments, drop him a line at PO Box G-1, Carmel 93921.)

Newly installed

Shuffleboard tournament, picnic set

Carmelites are invited to Forest Hill Park on Friday, June 23 for a community potluck picnic lunch and shuffleboard tournament.

Lunch is scheduled to begin at noon. People are asked to bring a dish to share with their friends and neighbors, along with their own utensils and plates. Beverages will be provided.

The shuffleboard tournament will begin at 1:30 p.m. Horseshoes and other picnic games will also be available.

The lunch and tournament is hosted by the Carmel-by-the-Sea Recreation Department and Carmel Foundation.

GREAT PREPARATIONS UNDER WAY FOR SERRA PILGRIMAGE

The week of October 12 to October 19 has been definitely chosen as the date of the first Annual Junipero Serra Pilgrimage, an elaborate festival of old Spanish pageantry of ceremonials and rituals which will commemorate the 140th anniversary of the death of the founder of California's Missions.

Junipero Serra died here in 1784 and was buried in Carmel Mission which he founded in 1770. Monterey Spanish authorities buried the Mission founder with great pomp, the guns of Spanish ships of war in Monterey Bay and in the Spanish Presidio of Monterey sounding his requiem.

ANNEXATION IS VITAL ISSUE, PUTNAM SAYS

Annexation is the most vitally important problem facing Carmel today, according to Frank Putnam, former mayor and fire commissioner. It is even more important than parking he told the Pine Cone this week.

Carmel provides municipal facilities to a contiguous geographic area three times its size but receives no support, Mr. Putnam declares.

Instead, in his opinion, the most vehement criticism of the city comes from residents of the contiguous areas.

"They must come into the city," he emphasizes, and adds "all that is stopping them is the almighty dollar."

CARMEL'S NON-MAIL DELIVERY POLICY

CAN CAUSE PROBLEMS

Carmel's unique postal delivery system has led to an unusually difficult problem that may require congressional action to solve.

Because Carmel has no sidewalks or street addresses, there is no mail delivery in the village.

Traditionally, Carmelites have picked up their mail from individual post office boxes in the main office at Dolores and Fifth.

Incorrectly addressed mail (for example, mail addressed to a street instead of a post office box), is routinely returned to sender, according to Carmel Postmaster Frank Ledesma.

One solution for residents is to list their post office box in the telephone book, said Ledesma.

SURFERS AND SCENIC RESIDENTS SQUARE OFF

With the arrival of summer, Scenic Road has been transformed into a battle zone between surfers and residents.

Residents along the winding, oceanfront road say they are disgusted with open drinking and drug use, public sex, and disrespect for property owner's rights to peace and privacy.

Youthful surfers say they feel targeted as scapegoats for all the ills of Carmel Beach, and blame most of the abuses on out-of-towners and tourists. Local surfers say they are responsible and lawful.

And city officials, for the most part, seem to feel that everything within their power already is being done to control the problem.

Bay School offers summer recreation program

BAY SCHOOL is offering a summer program beginning June 26 that will be open to children ages 3 to 6.

The program, sponsored by the Carmel Unified School District, will be open from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Children do not have to reside in the CUSD to attend.

Jenni Eldridge, the current after-school director at Bay School and an experienced childcare teacher, will run the program. The program offers arts and crafts, games, storytimes, dramatic play, cooking projects and field trips.

Families will be asked to sign up on a two-week contract basis with a minimum of two days per week. There is no drop-in care. Blocks include mornings (8 a.m. to noon — $8); afternoons (noon to 5:30 p.m. — $10); and all day (8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. — $16).

Registration packets are available at Bay School and in the River School office. For further information call Barbara Beck at 624-1546 or Jenni Eldridge at Bay School, 624-4397 from 2 to 5:30 p.m.

CARMEL YOUTH BASEBALL

By Mary Parsons

PINTO: IN a close game June 6, Fourtane's beat JJ's Shoes 21-20. The second inning was especially exciting for both teams; Eric Suttoung (JJ) made a great catch. Game highlights included a home run by Jesse Christensen (JJ), two triples by Ryan Lehr (F), and a clean base hit by Tasha Roos (F).

Bruno Construction and Lloyd's Shoes tied at 18 on June 7. Frank Bruno homered, Eva Real tripled, and doubles were hit by Keath Moon, Trevor Fogg, Atticus Culver-Reese, Eva Real, Joey Goldman, Josh Soskin, Eric Bensberg (L), and Jason Martin, Josh Rosenthal, Stephen Sparolini, Frank Bruno and Sal Palma (B). Real and Sparolini were noted for good fielding.

Fourtane's topped Carmel Bay Company 24-10 on June 8. Tyson Curtis showed a good glove for the winners. Contributing to a good game were John Donnelly, Patrick Callahan and Ryan Lehr (F), Eric Struve, Chris Cook, Andrew Armanasco, and Matt Vogelpohl (CBC).

Lloyd's Shoes defeated Med Market on June 10, 18-16. Top hitters: L's Trevor Fogg, Margaret Thomas, Eva Real, Mandy Moran; MM's Ricky Firebaugh, Keath Moon, Lee Lightfoot, and Christina West. Fogg, Firebaugh and Moon hit home runs. Real was especially sharp at first base.

MUSTANG: The division finished with a three-way tie for first between Copies by the Sea, Great Scott's Pizza, and On the Beach, followed by County Mounties, Carmel Realtors and Brown, Spaulding.

Great Scott's Pizza defeated Carmel Realtors on June 5, 7-6. Tim Greco and Nick Marazzo batted 2-for-3 for the win; Greco also doubled.

County Mounties defeated Copies by the Sea, scoring runs in each of the first five innings and holding their opponents runless until the fifth. Trent Nishiguchi (2-for-3, 2 doubles) and Kris Pallastri (double) were top batters for the winners; Noah Cowen's bat also helped win the game. Russell Chaplan, Chris Purdy, Chris Spillfogel and Chris Capestro (all CS) also doubled. Michael Cohen was tough on the mound for the winners.

On the Beach beat Brown, Spaulding 17-10 on June 7. Sasha Vorobiov (BS) drove in four runs; Chris Langslet (DB) was 3-for-4 with 4 RBI and teammate Daniel Palshaw was 3-for-3 with a triple. Patrick Foudy doubled in a run for the win and was sharp in the field, with teammates Sandy Greenfield and Michael Spender. Vorobiov, Evan Auld-Susott and Jacob Silver made key putouts for BS.

County Mounties fell to Copies by the Sea 13-6 on June 8. Russell Chaplan (CS) and Trent Nishiguchi (CM) were top batters; Mike Sullivan and CM's Zachary Downing contributed key hits. Beau Oyler scored a home run that hit a red Mercedes.

Carmel Realtors topped Brown, Spaulding 13-11 on June 9. Ben Cook and Sasha Vorobiov went 2-for-3 for BS; teammates Evan Auld-Susott, Russel Wolter and CR's Bhajan Johnson hit sharp singles. Danny Searle (3-for-4, 2 doubles, 3 RBI) and Michael Yee were top CR batters. Ben Cook (BS), Yee and Dylan Pappas (CR) provided outstanding pitching performances. Vorobiov, Joe Silverie (BS) and Brian Huntington made great defensive plays.

Copies by the Sea overcame On the Beach 3-2 on June 10 in a tough game; the scorekeeper reported that every run, strikeout and putout was well earned. Russell Chaplan (CS) displayed heads-up base running, stealing home after singling; he also doubled. Chris Langslet doubled.

Great Scott's Pizza shut out County Mounties 9-0 on June 10. Kit Steven contributed a hit to the win; Kevin Witherell (3-for-3), David Keeble, and Ryan Bailey (GS), Jack Camp and Michael Cohen (CM) were all hot at bat.

BRONCO: Carmel Valley Disposal finished the season in first place, followed by Pine Inn, La Playa Derek Rayne and The Express.

Carmel Valley Disposal defeated La Playa 10-2 on June 7. Top batters for the winners were Chip Dorey, Brent Sullivan, and Scott Faverty. John Davi was top batter for La Playa. Sullivan pitched three scoreless innings for CVD; LP's Gary Briant was also good on the mound.

The Express fell to Pine Inn on June 8, 10-3. Brian O'Rourke (PI) hit 3-for-3; Matt Heinrich hit a ground-rule double. Amir Masliyah (2-for-3, RBI) was leading Express batter. Fielding highlights included a great double play by Robbie Nakamura, action by Jesse Lamb and Michael Gulla, and a terrific catch by Tahl Raz (all E); PI's Chris Chatham was effective at first base. Victor Etienne (E) pitched well.

Derek Rayne knocked off first-place Carmel Valley Disposal on June 10, 10-7. Robbie Koontz and Chris Mercadal both homered and doubled for the win. Mercadal also made an unassisted double play. CVD's Dominic Garnerie displayed outfielding skill.

La Playa defeated Pine Inn on June 10, 7-3. Casey Christensen (LP) tripled in two runs; LP's Jon Geisler and PI's Doug Miller doubled and had 2 RBI each. PI's Charlie Rowan contributed a hit and a great flyball catch, Christensen and PI's Michael Palshaw gave effective performances on the mound; Palshaw struck out seven and allowed no hits.

Join us in Carmel Valley July 4; the first CYB-CVLL game is at 1 p.m.

'Make the difference'

THAT'S THE motto of Carmel Camera Center where, during the month of June, 35 cents from each roll of film and enlargement are being donated to the Peninsula Outreach Program.

The Peninsula Outreach Program is dedicated to helping the homeless help themselves, and operates three homes and is in the process of opening a coffee house for drop-in clients.

The camera store has set a goal of raising $1,500, which now stands at $1,035 with about one week to go in the month.

The store also has a drop-off box for generous residents who want to donate clothes, cans of coffee, sheets, canned goods, towels, pillows toiletries and various other household items. The outreach program is also in desperate need of a portable crib.

Be generous.

Have a president to lunch...The Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce will hold its Past Presidents Luncheon at noon Thursday, June 29, at Rancho Canada.

Fun will be had for all, as members and friends are invited to greet and visit with the chamber's past presidents.

Cost for members is $12, non-members $13. For reservations call 659-4000.

A done deal...After more than a year of fine-tuning the sale of Katy's Place on Mission Street, it looks as though escrow will finally close July 8.

Out-going owner Randy Swedberg will make way for new owner Randall Bernett, a Seaside attorney.

Just in case you're wondering...The Better Business Bureau has successfully spread the word that The Processing Center, a Nashville, Tenn.-based organization, is bogus.

Here's how the scam worked until numerous complaints put the kibosh on the deal.

The company sent out certified letters (470,000 nationwide), saying people were entitled to one of five awards from the Puradyne Co.

The letter said that there was "absolutely nothing to buy or purchase." Prizes offered were: a 1989 Ford Taurus, $10,000 in cash, two round trip airfares and $5,000 in retail merchandise or savings bond.

Locally, the BBB received dozens of calls each week from the public inquiring about the slick mailer.

Those who didn't investigate the matter before responding found themselves faced with:

- High pressure tactics: they had only 72 hours to claim their prize.
- Nothing was free: consumers paid $26.50 for handling charges.
- The prizes offered were not given: the prize awarded was a vacation certificate that would cost consumers a total of $1,080.

An investigation by the BBB has prompted U.S. postal officials to accuse The Processing Center "of using the mails to conduct an illegal lottery and to receive money through false representations."

The U.S. District Court in Nashville has issued a temporary restraining order against The Processing Center.

Executive appointment...Carmel Valley-based Sierra Instruments, Inc. has announced the appointment of David Korpi to the position of senior vice president in charge of engineering.

Korpi received his bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering from the University of California at Berkeley.

He joined Sierra Instruments in 1977 as a design engineer and became a principal of the corporation in 1984.

Korpi has been awarded patents on several of Sierra's major products and has held management positions in engineering, manufacturing and sales.

As manager of Sierra's engineering department, Korpi will supervise all product design engineering, production documentation, and the establishment of procedures and priorities.

Grand opening...That would be at the Barn Swallow on July 1 in The Barnyard.

Owners Wayne and Sue Smith say they are offering unique woman's clothing, featuring the country French look.

The boutique will also provide children's clothing, watches ("which are like wearing art," according to Sue Smith), and a monogramming service.

The doctor is in...Dr. Carl Bergstrom has hung out his shingle at Seventh and Monte Verde, the site of the old Convenient Medical Care clinic.

Specializing in internal medicine, Bergstrom will continue accepting walk-in emergency patients while he builds up his practice.

Having moved here in December from Southern California, Bergstrom brings with him several years of experience in emergency room facilities.

Office hours will be from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday. Phone 624-3077.

Shop the Farmers' Market

Fresh vegetables and fruit sold by the farmers who grew them are the feature of the Farmers Market. The market is in operation 2:30 to 6 p.m. Thursdays at Monterey Peninsula College and 8 a.m. to noon Sundays at Hartnell College in Salinas.

A variety of local produce is available at the market, including fresh vegetables, fruit, nuts, honey, mushrooms, sprouts, flowers, nursery stock, dried fruit and eggs.

For further information, call 423-7308.

You Don't Have To Eat Pesticide-Treated Foods! There Is A Safer Alternative!

If you have been alarmed by the recent publicity concerning the presence of potentially harmful chemical residues in your food, then you should know two things:

1. You are not alone
2. You have viable, affordable alternatives

For decades, a small but dedicated group of farmers has been committed to farming practices which do not use any synthetically-compounded chemicals in the growing or processing of their foods. They employ techniques and practices commonly referred to as "organic farming".

ORGANIC MEANS POISON FREE

Since 1973 the Granary Market has been quietly committed to using all of its resources to making these natural and organically grown foods available to health-conscious consumers.

California state law* sets the legal requirements for how organic foods must be grown and processed. If the foods are labeled as certified organically grown*, they must meet these requirements.

It has always been our conviction that, ultimately, when fully informed, the consumer will choose health-promoting foods.

*Today, fortunately, the availability of certified** organically grown* foods and no spray fruits and vegetables is greater than ever.*

We invite you to visit our store. Ask for some information about our produce. Try some! The taste alone will convince you of its superior quality, not to mention that most of it is grown without the use of any potentially harmful sprays or chemicals.

BIG "I" YOUTH GOLF CLASSIC SET FOR RANCHO CANADA ON JUNE 27

The annual Monterey Peninsula Big "I" Insurance Youth Golf Classic, open to players aged 12 to 17, will be held on Tuesday, June 27, on the West Course of Rancho Canada Golf Club. Tee times will begin at 8:30 a.m.

This event is sponsored by the Independent Insurance Agents and brokers of the Monterey Peninsula as a qualifying tournament for the Big "I" State Championship, to be held this year at Rancho Murieta Country Club in Sacramento on July 12 and 13.

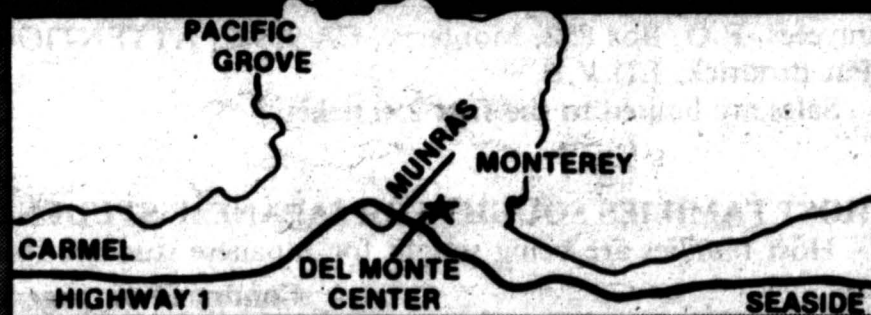

State winners will then gather for the National Championships, to be played at the Texarkana Country Club, Texarkana, Ar., between Aug. 3 and 8, in conjunction with the PGA (Professional Golfers Championship).

Carmel Valley touring professional Bobby Clampett won this tournament in 1975, and then went on to become the Big "I" National Champion.

The entry fee is $15, which covers green fees, prizes, trophies, and lunch. The tournament is 18 holes stroke play.

GOP WOMEN HONOR ANDREA SEASTRAND

The California Federation of Republican Women, Northern Division, Region IX, recently presented their 1989 "Woman of Achievement" award to Andrea Seastrand, wife of Assemblyman Eric Seastrand.

Seastrand was honored at the recent Region IX Conference and Leadership Training Seminar, conducted May 15 at the Monterey Plaza Hotel. In attendance were approximately 100 delegates from the six tri-county area Republican Women's organizations consisting of: Cabrillo, Carmel, Monterey Bay, Salinas, San Benito and Santa Cruz. Region IX is comprised of a membership totaling 1200.

Seastrand was recognized for her contribution to the community and participation within the Republican Party as immediate past president of the Salinas Area Republican Women, Federated; former CFRW, Northern Division Director, Region IX; CFRW, Northern Division Nominating Committee; associate member of the Monterey County Republican Central Committee; and co-founder of the Monterey County Republican Scholarship Fund. Most recently Seastrand was instrumental in the sponsorship of five busloads of high school seniors from 13 high schools throughout Monterey County, for attendance at the CFRW Advocacy Workshop in Sacramento during April. Completing its fourth year under the guidance of Seastrand, Monterey County Republicans have provided monetary assistance and transportation to students who hear presentations pertaining to the state level of government issues and operations.

As a retired teacher and mother of two children, community involvement includes service as former president of the Parents'-Teachers'-Students' Club; Future Farmers of America; Swim Team and Football Boosters; Cub Scouts; the Pro-Life Movement and Monterey County Coalition Against Pornography.

Business included adoption by the assembly of a resolution authored by the Carmel Republican Women's Club. The resolution seeks support of legislation by U.S. legislators, prohibiting pensions for members of Congress and federal public officials convicted of high crime or misdemeanor, or crime of moral turpitude or felony, including bribery, payroll kickbacks, tax evasion, drug possession, insider trading and violation of federal salary laws. The resolution will be presented for adoption by federation members at the state and national levels.

Forest fete

OBITUARIES

William Sefton

Private family services and burial at San Carlos Cemetery took place for William Sefton, a former Carmel City Councilman and police commissioner, who died May 17 at the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula. He was 88.

Born July 31, 1900 in Belfast, Ireland, he was a peninsula resident for more than 30 years. He owned and operated motels in Monterey and Carmel, and was a councilman in Carmel from 1966 to 1968, retiring for health reasons while he was in office.

He was a member of the High 12 Club of Carmel and the Alzafaz Temple Shrine in San Antonio.

Survivors include his wife of 70 years, Esther; a son, William of Monterey; a daughter, Bette Kauzlarich of Houston; five grandchildren; and five great-grandchildren.

Mission Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula, P.O. Box 2480, Monterey, 93942.

Joan P. Dujardin

A Catholic prayer service took place May 24 at the Paul Mortuary, and cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea, for Joan P. Dujardin of Pebble Beach, who died May 19 at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula. She was 84.

Mrs. Dujardin was born July 4, 1904 in the Parish of Muinteravara, County Cork, Ireland. In 1971 she moved from Palo Alto to Pebble Beach where she lived since 1971.

She was a homemaker and secretary for nine years with various corporations. She was secretary to the vice president of Shell Oil Co. and also worked for Flexonics Corp., both of San Francisco.

She was a charter member of the Monterey Bay Aquarium, and a longtime volunteer for the Carmel Foundation.

Survivors include her husband, Max; a son, Michael E. Moloney of San Jose; and one granddaughter.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the donor's favorite charity.

Robert J. Kaller

Robert Jameson Kaller, the owner and president of Galerie de Tours in Carmel, died May 22 at his home in Carmel. He was 69.

Born July 8, 1919 in Brooklyn, N.Y., he had lived on the peninsula for 25 years. He attended Columbia University, Harvard University and New York University. He served in the Army in World War II and saw combat in the South Pacific. He was the owner of Robert Kaller and Associates public relations firm in New York City from 1946-50.

He moved to California in the late 1950s and became the publisher of the Seaside Sentinel. He founded the Galerie de Tours in 1959, the first private art gallery in Carmel. He owned branch galleries in Pebble Beach and San Francisco. He was an art critic, collector and dealer of 19th-century art. He was listed in Who's Who in American Art. He taught courses at the Lyceum over the years.

Mr. Kaller traveled on expeditions to the North Pole in spring 1985 and to Mount Everest in winter 1986. He was a world traveler, having journeyed to six continents.

He was a senior member of the American Society of Appraisers, charter member of the Pacheco Club, and a member of the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art and the Commonwealth Club. He was past president of the Monterey History and Art Association.

Survivors include his wife, Delores; a son, James of San Francisco; two daughters, Cameron of San Francisco and Candace Kaller-Halpern of Bethesda, Md.; a stepdaughter, Kimberly Goodhope-Marutske of Richmond; and two granddaughters.

The family suggests that any memorial contributions be sent to the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula.

Evelyn P. Holzhauer

A memorial service took place May 26 at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea, followed by cremation, for Evelyn Pearl Holzhauer of Pebble Beach, who died May 23 at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula. She was 87.

Born Sept. 6, 1901 in Altoona, Pa., Mrs. Holzhauer was a homemaker who had lived in Pebble Beach for the past 27 years.

She was a charter member and past president of the PEO Sisterhood Chapter RW.

Survivors include her husband, William of Pebble Beach; a son David of Arcadia; a brother, Roy Neumeister of Glasgow, Ky.; and three grandchildren.

Inurnment took place at El Carmelo Cemetery. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests that any memorial contributions be sent to Community Hospital.

Katharina Otto

A Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated May 25 at Carmel Mission Basilica, for Katharina Otto, who died May 23 at her Carmel home. She was 85.

Mrs. Otto was born Sept. 27, 1903 in Essen, Germany, and lived in Carmel for 10 years.

Survivors include her daughter, Suzanne Diamond of Ahterton; a sister, Mia Bense of Essen, Germany; three brothers, Joseph, Hubert and Ferdinand Otto, all of Germany; and three grandchildren.

Entombment took place at San Carlos Cemetery.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Elwin F. Radde

Cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea, for Elwin F. Radde of Carmel Valley, the retired superintendent at Pacific Grove Municipal Golf Links, who died May 21 at Beverly Manor Convalescent Hospital. He was 84.

Mr. Radde, who was known as Al, was born Jan. 14, 1905 in Hamburg, Minn. He came to Monterey County 35 years ago.

He was the supervisor of the construction of the "ocean" nine of the PG links. He was in the golf profession for 50 years, including 20 years as a golf professional at Grand Park Golf Links in South Milwaukee, Wis.,

He was at Pacific Grove for 13 years, retiring in 1970. He was a member of the PG Men's Golf Club and the "noon gang" after his retirement.

Survivors include his wife, Jean; two sons, Richard of Carmel and Bruce of San Jose; and one granddaughter.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Lydia S. Gierer

Memorial services took place June 4 at the Carmel Presbyterian Church, for Lydia S. Gierer, who died May 31 at the home of her daughter in Carmel Valley. She was 82.

Born Nov. 22, 1906 in Germany, Mrs. Gierer, a homemaker, had lived in Monterey County for 39 years.

She was a member of the Carmel Presbyterian Church. Survivors include her daughter, Edith Moore of Carmel Valley, three grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren.

The family suggests that any memorial contributions be sent to the Mount Herman Association, Mount Herman, 95041.

Ruth Tara Fletcher

A memorial service took place June 4 at the Presidio of Monterey Chapel, for Ruth Tara Fletcher, who died May 22 at her home in Carmel. She was 78.

Mrs. Fletcher moved to Carmel with her husband, Col. George Edward Fletcher, when he retired from the Army in 1962 after a 30-year military career.

Born May 9, 1911 in Chicago, she attended the first Montessori School in the United States, when she was 4. When her family moved to New York, she attended the Professional Children's School.

As a child, she studied dancing and ballet. At 16 she auditioned for Florenz Ziegfeld and was hired as a dancer, appearing in theater productions Rosalie, with Marilyn Miller; Whoopie, with Eddie Cantor; Smiles, Simple Simon and Ballyhoo with Bob Hope.

She was also one of the first John Robert Powers models, but she gave up show business and modeling when she married Col. Fletcher, then a first lieutenant, in 1933, and became an Army wife.

During World War II she rolled bandages while her husband was overseas. In 1960, while he was stationed in Italy, she headed the North Atlantic Treaty Organization thrift shop in Naples.

After she and Col. Fletcher moved to Carmel, she served as the liaison between the Officer's Wives Club at Fort Ord and peninsula cultural events.

She served on the board of the Monterey History and Art Association from 1966 to 1972 and was president of the Monterey County Symphony Guild from 1966 to 1967.

She was a former board member of the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art and of Guide Dogs for the Blind, and for several years took part in the annual major fund-raising event of the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula, Tablescapes.

Mrs. Fletcher is survived by a daughter, Cynthia Sudholz of Boston; and a granddaughter.

Burial will take place beside her late husband at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point. The Mission Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests that any memorial contributions go to any of the above-mentioned peninsula organizations, or to Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula.

A few days later the received letters from the children, with comments like this: "I enjoyed our discussion of the use of the car in your youth. I guess having old cars so bad as I

Summer program registrations now being taken

AN EXTENSIVE variety of recreation classes and programs are available this summer through the Carmel Recreation Department and Carmel Youth Center.

Classes and programs for youths (ages 6 through 12), include painting and drawing, wearable art, art history, studio art, fly casting (12 years to adult), Carmel naturalist, crochet and cross-stitching, creative writing, contemporary dance, hand puppets, marionettes, pantomime, junior chef, junior tennis, and junior golf.

Painting and drawing, for example, is a four-session class meeting 1 to 2 p.m. Mondays, July 10-31 at the Carmel Youth Center, is for youths 6 and older, is taught by GERALYN MAUL and costs $16. Most classes follow a similar format.

For pre-schoolers (2½ to 5-year-olds), the following classes and programs are offered: I Can Be the Storyteller (acting out picture books); Apples to Zebras (classroom socialization); Let's Pretend (developing imagination skills); Crayons, Crafts and Stories; Mom and Me (crafts parents and children can enjoy); and Creative Dance.

Activities at the Carmel Youth Center (drop-in for middle and high school students), include Summer Safaris (trips to Raging Waters, Magic Mountain and Disneyland), a youth fitness program utilizing the center's weight room and summer dance parties.

The center is open during the school year Monday through Friday 3 to 8 p.m. and Saturday from noon to 8 p.m. During the summer opening is extended from noon to 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday. Ping-pong, video games, billiards, snack bar and weight room are available to youths.

For information on youth center activities call 624-3285 or 626-1255.

Adult activities include Introduction to Golf, Senior Adult Golf, Circuit Weight

Training, Adult Gym Basketball and Volleyball and a shuffleboard tournament set for June 23.

Pre-registration is required for most classes and programs and is taken on a first-come, first-served basis. Registration can be done by mail, walk-in (at youth center, Fourth and Torres 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.), or drop-off (drop off completed forms at Recreation Department at youth center).

You can find '89 Summer Recreation Program catalogs and registration forms at youth center, Bruno's, Harrison Library, Park Branch, Carmel City Hall, at all Carmel area schools, Great Western Bank, Bud's Pub, Wells Fargo Bank and Knapp's Cabinet & Mill.

For more information call 626-1255.

Soccer camp registrations being accepted

SOCCER CAMP, coached by former Argentine national player Carlos Volpini, will be offered in Carmel starting July 31.

The camp, open to both boys and girls 7 through 14, will be offered in two one-week sessions, the first July 31 to Aug. 4, the second Aug. 7-11. Both sessions will be conducted from 9 a.m. to noon at Carmel Middle School fields.

The fee is $75 per camper per session and includes full uniform of shirt, shorts and socks, professional coaching, training in a variety of surfaces and situations and soccer videos.

Volpini, director and founder of Monterey Peninsula Soccer Camp, has 12 years of professional soccer experience, including with the 3rd Indoor World Cup in 1988. Currently he is a coaching instructor on the Northern California Youth Soccer Association coaching staff.

Reservations are limited and are on a first-come, first-served basis. Deadline is July 18. For more information call Volpini at 667-2679 or Barbara Beck at 624-1546.

Knowledge of CPR could save lives

MORE THAN 70 percent of all CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) rescues occur in the home on an individual known by the rescuer.

Statistics show that more than 650,000 people in the United States died from heart attacks in 1986 and that heart disease is the leading cause of death in Monterey County.

On the other hand CPR saves more than 250 lives a day; the more people that know CPR, the more lives that can be saved.

With that in mind the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross offers CPR classes monthly all year:

• Saturday, July 15, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Classes are held at the Carmel Red Cross house at Eighth and Dolores. Classes include demonstrations and teaching of the Heimlich maneuver. Cost is $15 for the eight-hour class. A certificate will be presented upon completion.

For more information call the Red Cross at 624-6921.

Her memories are of a Big Sur without bridges

By ANNE PAPINEAU

"I'VE WRITTEN several thousand poems, and would you mind telling me what the hell you do with poetry?"

With a backdrop of Native American weavings and evocative black and white photographs of Monterey Peninsula scenery, Rosalind Sharpe Wall takes center stage in her Carmel Valley home. It is a bright day and the surrounding hills meet the heat bravely, but Wall would be the first to tell you that living 12 miles inland is not her cup of tea.

ARTS & LEISURE

"I love the sea, the ocean — I'm not a landlubber," she asserts. "My mother was that way and I'm that way."

No — if Wall could live anywhere it would be as in the days of her childhood — on a ranch in view of the Pacific.

Wall has recorded many memories and a good deal of local history in her new book, A Wild Coast and Lonely — Big Sur Pioneers. Like her apartment, her book is crowded with personal memorabilia. A Wild Coast and Lonely brims with true stories, many of them first-hand, told by a someone who grew up in a Big Sur that had yet to be tamed by bridges and exclusive resorts.

"We didn't call it Big Sur. We called it Down Coast," she recalls. "As Esther Pfeiffer Ewoldsen said, 'We knew where we came from.' It wasn't something we were exactly proud of. People thought we were hicks and hayseeds."

Wall and her younger brother grew up on their parents' ranch at Mill Creek. The 300-acre property was located on the site now known as Biaby Creek.

"This was my father's ideal dream of paradise," she notes. "The ranch cost him $6,000 in 1919, which was a lot of money in those days. He earned it as a writer."

Wall is now 70, "quite an impressive thing to be." And she still shares her father's love of the coast and of writing.

"My father was a writer and I think the tapping of the typewriter keys must have penetrated my unconscious mind. I just thought that when people grew up they became writers."

She did just that, writing for the Carmel Pine Cone from 1946 to 1951, publishing her poetry and co-authoring two books on the Tarot, among other projects. But for her latest work, Wall turned to her childhood memories for subject matter.

"I realized since my time came when it did, there aren't many people my age who lived that way who are also writers," she observes.

A Wild Coast and Lonely covers a century of history, spanning the time of the first white settlers in the 1850s to the building of the great bridges. As an 11-year-old, Wall crossed the pilings of the Bixby (then Mill Creek) Bridge when they were joined only by a catwalk. As a young woman, Wall hiked or travelled by horseback to collect the stories of the Big Sur pioneers who still lived there.

"I often hiked 10 miles round-trip for an interview in those days," she remembers. These days, a spinal condition and emphysema limit her mobility.

"I want to emphasize to all young people to treasure every moment of using your physical body," she states. "There are a lot of problems, even spiritual ones, that can be resolved through movement."

Wall's personal memories of Big Sur began in the early 1920s, in a home named Rainbow Lodge. Cars were few, kerosene lamps were used for light and there was no telephone. When her father was away, Wall's mother kept a pistol close at hand because the few human visitors they had were often convicts on the lam.

"It had been pretty much a wild, open, empty country since the Indians were exterminated," she says. "It's a very powerful country. It has a very powerful inner eerie quality. It's got a special feeling of its own. My mother used to speak of the content of the coast — meaning its inner quality."

ROSALIND SHARPE Wall is an artist, published poet, newspaperwoman and the author of a new book rich in Big Sur history, which is titled A Wild Coast and Lonely — Big Sur Pioneers. Wall grew up "Down Coast," the name by which residents knew

Wall writes of her father's ill-fated efforts to plant a field with potatoes, only to have gophers consume the lot. She and her brother explored the seashore and the wild canyons, the family cow occasionally following them into the hills.

She remembers also the discipline required of them all. Snakes and even large birds threatened the youngsters, and brother and sister soon learned to obey their parents' warnings without hesitation.

In addition to family stories, readers of A Wild Coast and Lonely will also encounter figures of Big Sur legend, including Robinson Jeffers, Charles Francis Post, Sam Trotter and Florence Swetnam Pfeiffer.

Friends are already encouraging Wall to follow up this book with a sequel, to write of the changes that came to the Central Coast after World War II.

Big Sur before the bridges were built. In her Carmel Valley home, Wall displays a copy of the 35th anniversary edition Carmel Pine Cone, produced while she was a staff member in the late '40s.

"Every canyon had a different atmosphere, a different feeling in those days," she explains. "In the '40s, the differences were so distinct between Monterey, Pacific Grove and Carmel. Nowadays — the communities are all sort of blurred. Like Los Angeles, the edges have gotten fuzzy."

But, in response to suggestions, Wall is putting pen to paper, remembering people and times in a way that no one else can.

Rosalind Sharpe Wall will reminisce about Big Sur and autograph copies of her book from 1 to 3 p.m. Friday, June 23 at Books Inc., located on Ocean Avenue between Mission and San Carlos streets, Carmel.

A reading and booksigning are also set 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Saturday, July 8 at Nepenthe in Big Sur.

JAZZ TIDES

By John Detro

Making of a star

IT LOOKS LIKE Scotty Wright can do no wrong these days. The homegrown jazz vocalist's current roll now includes a television documentary about his planned emergence as a national headliner.

This latest development was revealed by Scotty, the afternoon of his June 7 gig with John Cortes Quartet at Monterey Bay Club.

He said the hour-long show will be overseen by director Clyde Ware and producer Joseph Wouk (author Herman's son—same team that signed him to play Bojangles Robinson in a feature film on the great entertainer. The documentary's working title was given as The Making Of A Star: Scotty Wright).

"We'll begin putting it together by the end of this month," Scotty said. "There'll be raw footage from Bad Jim and video segments shot during my club dates. I don't know whether they will offer it to network or cable."

Bad Jim was the Ware/Wouk western that took Scotty to Arizona for an April shoot. The filmmakers felt he could use the experience — so our subject worked with actors James Brolin, Richard Roundtree, John Clark Gable. Release time: November '89.

"They said they liked my work," Wright continued. "I wrote a couple of tunes and sang them while the cameras rolled — one the film's love theme. My part expanded from background pianist to a 10-minute feature role that let me do both songs in full. Now they're considering six more compositions — incidental slices for the film score."

Scotty's manager — Tup Lohse — broke her interested silence with the report that he has been booked into a major

Los Angeles jazz room July 5-6. Yep — Vine Street Bar and Grill. "We're shopping for a (backup) trio of heavy hitters," she said.

Wright: "We're supposed to start shooting the Bojangles project around the first of the year. He was a master dancer — I'm in awe of making such an uphill grab. As soon as a choreographer's signed, I'll begin work with that person. At present I'm studying Bill Robinson films."

A dozen or so folks on the Bad Jim crew, Tup said, had heard Scotty's first album. "They came over and expressed appreciation."

"That made everything easier," Scotty said. "In fact, it was a comfy time."

MONTEREY BAY Blues Festival heads into its fourth annual run this weekend (6/24-25) with some corporate sponsorship buttoned up.

So the Garden Stage within our fairgrounds has been renamed Coor's Garden Stage for the occasion. "Headliners-to-be" will work out there while main arena performers romp and stomp — The Driving Wheel, JB and the Nightshift, John Garcia Band, R&B tenorman Terry Hanck's gang.

The 1989 edition will be dedicated to the late Hank Hutchins, Board President Billy DeBerry told media people at a June 15 press conference and picnic on the fairgrounds lawn. Dr. Hutchins served as an imaginative trustee for both the Blues Fest and Monterey Jazz Festival.

"After the bills get paid," Billy said, "we'll set up a fund and selection process to furnish musical instruments to young people who need the help."

If you've not yet obtained tickets or wish detailed scheduling information, call 394-2652. That's the festival office.

Ray Taliaferro of KGO Radio again will serve as master of ceremonies. Booth operators promise good food and colorful merchandise along the usual routes. On both Saturday and Sunday mornings, gates will open at 10:30. Unlike Monterey Jazz Festival, the Blues Fest has no grounds passes — admission requires tickets to main shows.

Saturday afternoon: James Cotton, Frankie Lee All-Stars with the Bobby Murray Band, Bobby Reed Band plus tear-it-up vocalist Sarah Livingston, Chris Cain. (Frankie's crew includes Al Ripon, Vivien Irving, Freddie Hugu.)

Saturday evening: Solomon Burke Blues Review (two hours), Charlie Musselwhite, Broadway Blues Band.

Sunday afternoon: Albert Collins, Johnny Copeland, Little Charlie and the Nightcats, Joanna Connors, Webb Sisters.

T HEATER REVIEW

By Joe Guzaitis

Misbegotten moon, keep shining...

JOSIE HOGAN is a big girl. She's as strong and fierce as only the daughter of an Irish bantam tyrant could be. His heat has annealed her mettle to fine edge. She loves her father, of course, in that obligatory love/hate way that mutually exploited blood relatives can have.

"Keep hold of your wits or I won't miss you when you're gone," she tells him. When she raps her father over the head with a club, he deserves it. Sort of a Playgirl of the Eastern Seaboard, we feel that she would split his pate if she had to. She brags of having had a lot of the men of the town, at one time or other. She also confesses later in the play that she is a virgin and pretense of being a slut is less painful to maintain than the truth. (Her would-have-been partners apparently support her story rather than admit defeat at her hands.) In desperation she agrees with her father to perpetrate a pathetic entrapment scheme to force her beau into marriage. However, this dynamo of deceit can also be warm, tender, motherly, poetic, in short, she's one of Eugene O'Neill's finest creations in one of his best plays — Moon for the Misbegotten.

Some are more misbegotten than others in this tale of an Irish tenant farmer in Connecticut and the sons he never loved and the daughter who's better to him than he deserves. Add a romantic alcoholic (based on O'Neill's brother James), who idolizes Josie in a hopelessly futile romantic way, and suffers from matriolatriy. His shame is having let his sainted mother see him drunk while on her death bed. A subplot involves a rich neighbor bent on forcing the Hogans off their farm. All this creates a rich setting for the action that ensues.

"I don't have an excuse and I can't think up a lie," says James Tyrone at one point, revealing the palimpsest of lies, schemes, and reversals that pervade this group. There is a tragic tetrameter to their actions: insults are hurled, offense is taken, regret ensues, absolution follows. As in an apache dance this rhythm is relentlessly pursued until we are spent, but satisfied, Josie and her James have their own set of steps; each yearns for the other; each is disappointed by the other's revelations, both fall back into solitary pride. The knowledge gained is bitter but enabling.

The men are all cripples in one way or another. Phil masks his failure as a father by professing hatred for his sons. Mike is a failure at asserting his manhood to his father and must run away. James is a failed actor and lover; he is condemned to bimbos because he cannot reconcile his appetite to his romantic aspirations. The millionaire is a failure at commanding true respect from anyone. Josie achieves the only success in the play — that of gaining a terrible wisdom.

Josie is played by Ann Mattingly in a piece of inspired casting. In Stevie and The Price, and most recently Come Back Little Sheba, she has shown a range and strength and confidence that is stunning. I hope we can keep her interested enough to have her here for a long, long time.

David Miller plays James Tyrone as suave yet doomed to an alcoholic grave. Miller's sonorous voice and over-controlled gestures fit to a T this reading of the part. His meticulous stager and convincing hallucinations are gripping.

James P. Kinney plays Josie's father Phil, an Irish archetype of a raging tenant farmer, who might fancy himself a rustic Lear but comes across as merely a ferocious Falstaff. Craig Dunbar plays Mike, the last of Phil's sons to hit the road, as his two brothers before him (all with Josie's help) to finally escape the old man's wrath.

George Spelvin deserves hazardous duty pay for the thankless role of the millionaire neighbor T. Stedman Harder (they fall) who comes on the place to berate the Hogans about their wandering pigs and gets caught between the bantam and the banshee, ends up beaten and humiliated, and kicked "tail over tin cup" off the place. These lesser parts are done pretty well and sustain the quality of the production.

Cole Weston's direction is spirited, and I felt followed and enhanced the natural strengths of the actors. He wisely merged Acts Three and Four since the play runs so long anyway.

Flaws were few and far between. Kinney occasionally had some trouble with his lines as he sputtered at Josie, but he recovered well and in this role it would hardly be noticeable anyway. Spelvin could have sputtered a bit more to show token resistance.

Carolyn Krough's costumes were fine with the exception of the work clothes in Act One. They were too clean. Phil's brand new red farmer's bandanna underscored this anomalous situation. O'Neill specifies Josie as barefoot and in a cheap sleeveless cotton dress for Act One. She is upgraded, I'm glad to say, in this production to a sweater and jeans (to avoid a Tobacco Road image, I presume) and to better fit her demeanor in that act.

The set is excellent. The tar paper shack and the shabby furnishings are just right. Hats off to Colter, Crockett, Dunbar, Thurman and Oppenhuizen for their collective efforts. The lighting, which let the natural full moon work in the evening scenes, and then had to bring in a stage dawn near the end, was very well done thanks to Cain, Disseldorp, and Matheson.

There was a good sense of vigilance in keeping the production from unnecessary nuisances. You can't do much about the occasional street noise, but you can tend the fires so that they don't turn smoky and asphyxiate the patrons. Cole Weston himself was seen putting logs on, that's the spirit that strives for excellence in a performance. A dog got loose in the audience during Act Two but was discreetly led off. This kind of care is now always the case with Outdoor Forest Theater productions.

O'Neill is considered America's first world-class playwright. Three Pulitzer prizes and the Nobel stand as evidence for that claim. He has written so much that is so good I think we should steal the march on the world and inaugurate an annual O'Neill Festival on the Peninsula to systematically explore his works.

While I'm making suggestions, I'll give the guild a few more. I would have bought a logo scarf or cap and rented a seat cushion since I habitually underestimate how cool it gets after sundown. (How about selling logo cushions and renting plain ones — so they won't get carried off?) The logo sweatshirts that are available are a nice start but there are other thermal needs yet to be fulfilled that would constitute a source of revenue that should not be overlooked.

You can now get sandwiches and a variety of soft drinks as well as sweets, in case you missed dinner to catch the show. Another good idea.

Moon for the Misbegotten shines on Thursdays through Saturdays at 8 p.m.; Sundays at 7:30 p.m. through July 2nd. Don't miss this American epic masterpiece.

THEATER REVIEW

By Joe Guzaitis

Bali Ha'i under the big top

SOUTH PACIFIC is a wonderful piece of Americana embodying humor and sacrifice during a very difficult time — World War II — but in a very beautiful place, an island chain in the South Pacific.

The production that just opened at the Monterey Bay TheatreFest is enhanced by two other factors: it takes place in a festive setting in a red and white striped "big top" circus tent, and it is performed by the Fort Ord Cabaret Theatre group, made up largely of military people. I felt that the special understanding of these GIs for the setting brought an added zest to the production. Living in isolation, under wartime stress, and trying to keep humor and sanity in the foreground brings out a wry humor that was very well expressed by this troupe.

It just happens to be one of the finest Rodgers and Hammerstein musicals as well, so if you don't leave this show with a song on your lips and bounce in your step, you may be unreachable.

In a rear area of the Pacific Theater, a group of Navy Sailors and Seabees together with a group of Navy Nurses are coping with boredom and deprivation in songs revealing their desires (There is Nothing like a Dame) and hopes (A Cockeyed Optimist) respectively. Two symbolic relationships reflect the possibility of romance in this far-away place: Ensign Nellie Forbush falls in love with a French plantation owner; Lieutenant Cable falls for a native girl.

Enlisted personnel, as usual, get to kick sand while watching officers frolic. A wacky native entrepreneur (in grass skirts and shrunken heads) called Bloody Mary, enlivens the scene with her tales of Bali Ha'i, an island paradise that is, of course, off limits. A covert mission to a Japanese-held island finally gets this group into the war, but takes the two male leads into peril giving the play its tension. The resolution is moving and bittersweet. Rodgers and Hammerstein (with Joshua Logan) captured for all time the best of American pluck and passion in this tumultuous era.

Major Conni Ross is one of the best local female singing leads. Her talent matches her rank. Her performance is touching and tender and she is just right for the part. From the winsome "I'm Gonna Wash That Man Right Out of My Hair" to her gleeful Arkansas squeal of happiness, Major Ross gives us a well-realized character that we can't help but love.

A great surprise was the role of Bloody Mary, who was so good she won the audience immediately. Rosanna Yadehari captured the essence of this wacky wheeler-dealer as few others could. She has been a member of the group for some time and

Fourth Blues Festival jams this weekend in Monterey

By MAC McDONALD

AFTER A rocky start the Monterey Bay Blues Festival (scheduled for this weekend, June 24-25 at the Monterey Fairgrounds), may have come of age and could soon join the ranks of the peninsula's other highly regarded music festivals.

Last year's event was lambasted by both fans and critics, mostly because of its selection of performers, who were heavy on flashy soul and Las Vegas-style glitz, but lacking in what anyone would call the down-home blues. The best performance of the woeful weekend was a blistering set by a 50-plus British musician in long hair and cutoffs — John Mayall and his Bluesbreakers.

But that was last year. This year's version, the fourth annual bash, features a dynamic lineup, heavy on straight-ahead blues performers and light on the glitz. After getting shelled in the press and criticized by patrons, organizers went back to the drawing boards and came up with an advisory committee of knowledgeable blues fans and critics who made suggestions of performers for the following year. It worked.

Headlining successive shows (two afternoon, one evening), during the three-show festival will be harp master James Cotton, Solomon Burke (with a special two-hour blues review), and Albert Collins, "The Master of the Telecaster." Not only that, but here's how the rest of the shows shape up:

On Saturday, June 24, starting at 12:30 p.m., San Jose bluesman (and Northern California favorite), Chris Cain Band, Sarah Livingston with Bobby Reed Band, Frankie Lee & The All Stars with Vivien Irving, Freddie Huge, Al Ripon, and the Bobby Murray Band, and Cotton.

Saturday evening's show (at 7:30), opens with local favorites, the Broadway Blues Band, followed by harp player Charlie Musselwhite, then Solomon Burke.

Sunday's afternoon's show, which could very well be the highlight of the weekend, features the Webb Sisters, Joanna Connors, Alligator recording artists Little Charlie & the Nightcats, the "Texas Twister," Johnny Copeland, and Collins.

Copeland and Collins appeared at last year's San Francisco Blues Festival, Collins capping the weekend event with his patented foray into the audience and a monster jam with Elvin Bishop and Katie Webster. Collins also climaxed the Monterey Jazz Festival's blues afternoon last year with a sterling set of the slashing, uptempo blues numbers he's come to be associated with.

Copeland is celebrating the release of his latest album, Ain't Nothin' But a Party, a live album that shows off why he's nicknamed "The Texas Twister."

There will also be acts performing on the smaller Garden Stage (dubbed the "Coors Garden Stage" for the festival), just outside the main arena. But unlike the Monterey Jazz Festival, "grounds admission" tickets will not be sold; admission to the fairgrounds will only be to Main Show ticketholders.

Coors' Garden Stage performers include The Driving Wheel, J.B. & The Nightshift, The John Garcia Band, and local favorite Terry Hanck and the Soul Rockers. Ray Taliaferro of KGO radio has been enlisted to be emcee for the weekend.

Food and souvenir concession stands — which will feature everything from barbecued ribs and beer to T-shirts and postcards — will be operating throughout the festival. Gates open at 10:30 a.m. both days of the festival.

Tickets are $14 and $16 for individual shows (back half and front half of the arena respectively), or $42 and $48 for three-show packages. Tickets are available at all Ticketron outlets, through the festival office, or at the gate the days of the festival. For more ticket information call 394-2652.

A word of warning: State law prohibits cans or bottles on the premises of the fairgrounds so no coolers or food or beverage containers will be allowed. Both alcoholic and non-alcoholic beverages will be available on the grounds.

ALBERT COLLINS, "The Master of the Telecaster," and his Icebreakers will put the crowning touches to the fourth edition of the Monterey Bay Blues Festival Sunday afternoon with his fiery brand of blues. (Mac McDonald photograph.)

JAZZ TIDES

By John Detro

Have fun checking out the Down Home cookery and musical roots. It's perfectly fine and naturally right to boogie in the aisles.

LIKE ANY POET worth the job title, Mose Allison today walks dappled ground where dark parts of human experience mix constantly with razor-quick light.

Real credibility as bluesman gives Mose a fallback position when an unusually diverse audience grows restive over outside, fairly dissonant piano romps and original lyrics that pinpoint urban agonies before pledging participation in horrific, wondrous, self-satirizing, swinging life.

All this was obvious throughout his one-nighter at the Sheraton's Monterey Bay Club. And he told me he'd written eight new tunes for his next Blue Note album. "It'll be an autumn session" with that package "probably released early next year."

Sung points: our culture prates about mercy and justice without knowing what those words mean; big city newcomers must avoid drugs and usury of women; rip-off artists thrive; the universe still deserves simple hellos and statements like "you can count on me."

Backed by San Francisco players Mel Graves on bass and George Marsh at the drums, Allison's piano surveyed Bud Powell, Russ Freeman, Hampton Hawes and then (moving out) Tristano, Byard, Waldron, Zeitlin, his own stark chops. He knew exactly when — to the instant — listeners required Mose standards along with Willie Dixon things and midtempo Ellington ballads. Hip elders, college people, business types, R&B pros from local bands — all fretted at The Edge and relaxed as one when expectations suddenly were met.

Scoop time. Mose the lyricist identified his "main influence" as the late American poet Kenneth Patchen: visionary, pacifist, sworn enemy of institutional cruelty and politicians at the trough. The connection deserves examination

— I knew Patchen well, put together a little book about him, shall take a shot at an essay later this year.

I don't know if Mose Allison's happy — that never has been the point of the prophetic path.

Same venue: Higher Feelings (6/22), Terry Hanck and his Soulrokers (6/23-24), Bob Phillips and Terry Miller (6/25), Duo Du Jour (6/26), Jack and Ed Show (6/27), group fronted by trumpeter Rebecca Franks and alto saxist Virginia Mayhew (6/28-29).

THE JUNE ISSUE of Musician magazine brings forth treasure — generous excerpts from the last notebooks of Charles Mingus. This superlative jazzman's widow — Sue Graham Mingus — gave the material to writers Bill Flanagan and Peter Watrous after they'd simply dropped by for dinner and social conversation.

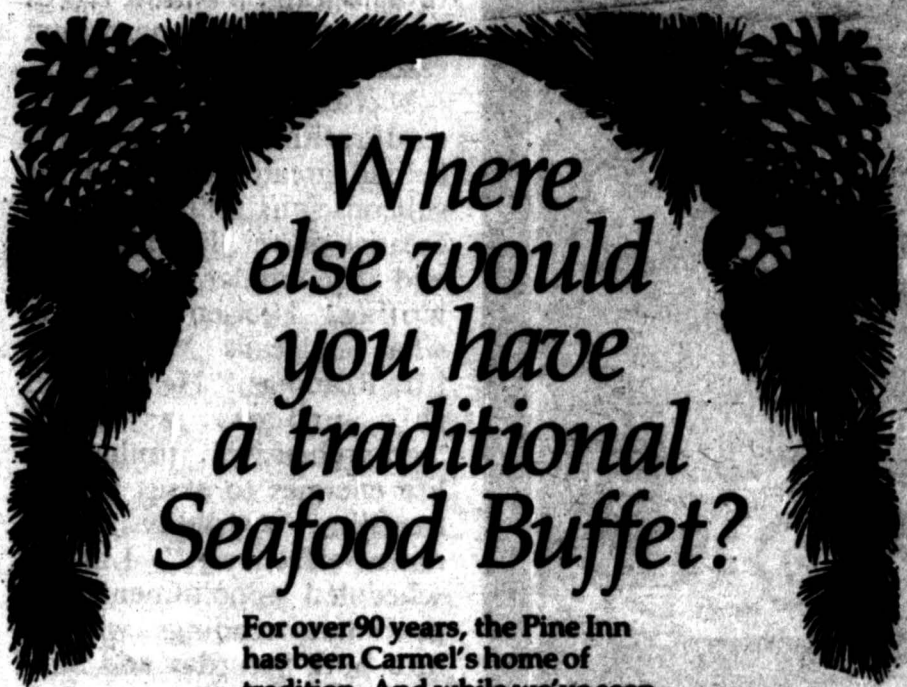

On so-called free jazz: "I know when somebody's fooling and when they're serious. For instance, if the free form guys could play the same tune twice, then I would say they were playing something. But they can't."

On Miles Davis: "I played with him in California at Billy Berg's (historic Los Angeles club). Miles in those days was a very sweet guy. He got evil later on. I don't know why."

On writing: "Pure composition is taking one note with no thought and using it where you want to, go wherever you want to, until you hear that next note."

And so much more. Recommended reading.

ON STAGE

Chicago

Murder set to music and way out comedy combine in Chicago, the first musical in the Western Stage's 15th Anniversary Summer Season.

The musical tells of Roxie Hart, a sometime chorus gal married to a boozin' gin mill entertainer. Chicago is directed by Tom Humphrey. Lorenzo Aragon serves as production coordinator and choreographer.

Chicago plays at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 7 p.m. Sunday, June 23-25. The theater is at Hartnell College, 156

Homestead Ave. (off West Alisal Street), Salinas.

For reservations call The Western Stage ticket office at 758-1221 or 375-2111 between 1 and 6 p.m. weekdays or up to curtain time on performance days, or call Center Stage Ticketing in Monterey at 649-5561.

A Moon for the Misbegotten

The last of Eugene O'Neill's plays, A Moon for the Misbegotten centers around one of the "four haunted Tyrones." A Moon for the Misbegotten is the opening production for Forest Theater Summer Season 1989. Cole Weston directs this drama.

The cast includes David Miller as James Tyrone, Jr.; Ann Mattingly as Josie and James Patrick Kinney as Hogan. The production plays at 8 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays and at 7:30 p.m. Sundays until July 2.

Tickets are $10 general; $8 for students and senior citizens.

On Thursdays, half-price admission is available for seniors. For reservations, contact Center Stage Ticketing, 649-5561.

The Forest Theater is at Mountain View and Santa Rita in Carmel-by-the-Sea.

South Pacific

The classic Rodgers and Hammerstein musical, South Pacific, kicks off the summer series of shows in the "Big Top Tent" erected by Monterey Bay TheatreFest. The tent is located in the Upper Custom House Plaza, located adjacent to Fisherman's Wharf on the waterfront in Monterey.

The classic musical is co-produced by the GroveMont and Fort Ord Cabaret theaters, and is directed by Michael Cheak. Hear such musical theater standards as Some Enchanted Evening, You've Got to be Carefully Taught, Happy Talk and others at 8:30 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays and 8 p.m. Sundays.

Tickets are $10 general, $8 for students and senior citizens, and $5 for children under 12 and GroveMont season ticket holders. For additional information, call 649-0340 or 649-6852. For reservations, call 649-5561.

The Road to Mecca

The Central Coast premiere of Athol Fugard's The Road to Mecca concludes its run at Carmel's Cherry Hall.

Many layers of relationship are reflected in this play, one of the few all-white plays created by the South African playwright.

Rosamond Goodrich portrays Miss Helen, an Afrikaaner who seemed to have led a fairly conventional life until her husband died when she was in her 50s. She then became the town eccentric, devoted to her art. Miss Helen finds a young friend and ally in Elsa, played by Sandy Sidener. The third character in Fugard's play is Marius Byleveld, played by Jim Jensen, an old Afrikaaner churchman who feels it is his duty to persuade Miss Helen away from her art and help her back to the church.

Ramie Wikdahl directs The Road to Mecca, a production of Partners in Art.

The Road to Mecca plays at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday, June 22-25. The June 25 Sunday matinee will benefit the Alliance on Aging.

Cherry Hall is at Guadalupe and Fourth in Carmel-by-the-Sea. Tickets are $8 general, $6.50 for senior citizens and students. Group rates are also available.

For reservations, call 649-5561.

Monterey Bay TheatreFest

The sixth season of admission-free Monterey Bay TheatreFest shows opens Saturday, June 24 at Monterey's Custom House Plaza and Memory Garden, located between Fisherman's Wharf and the Doubletree Mall on the waterfront in Monterey.

The Lower Custom House Plaza provides the setting for the Main Stage shows. The schedule is as follows: live music at 10 a.m.; Jack and the Beanstalk will be presented at noon; The Three Little Pigs, 12:30 p.m.; Cinderella, 1 p.m. The GroveMont Clown Troupe will entertain at 1:30 p.m.

At 2 p.m., cheer the armies of the Black and White Kings as they go into battle during The Human Chess Game. The Monterey Opera Association presents Pergolesi's short comic opera The Maid-Mistress, (sung in English), at 4 p.m.

Experience these shows on Saturdays and Sundays from June 24 through Aug. 6. Admission is free. Featured June 24 and 25 is the Monterey Bay Arts and Crafts Faire, which will showcase the works of more than 100 artists and craftspeople from throughout the Western United States. A variety of food and drink will be available each TheatreFest day, as well as souvenirs ranging from beer tankards and coffee mugs to sun visors and bleacher cushions. All concession revenue benefits the admission-free productions.

'Pyramid Power' author signs, gives readings

Blake's Bookshop, located in the Carmel Crossroads Shopping Center, will host a two-part event June 24-25. Greg Nielsen, international best selling New Age author, who has written a series of books dealing with spiritual awakening, will be on hand to autograph his most recent works and conduct pendulum readings by appointment.

Nielsen helps readers to understand the science behind greater access to the subconscious mind and its creative power. In addition to and in conjunction with his writing, Nielsen conducts what he calls "Pendulum Life Readings." He describes this process as a "comprehensive" tuning to life energies to assist you in handling everyday living more effectively." Limited scheduled appointments for pendulum readings will be held both Saturday and Sunday. He will also autograph his books dealing with spiritual frequencies Beyond Pendulum Power, Pendulum Power and Pyramid Power between 2 and 4 p.m. on Saturday.

Pyramid Power has sold more than one million copies around the world and is currently on the top 10 best seller's list of metaphysical books in the Bay Area. Nielsen acquaints readers with the tools available to gain greater personal power and creative energy. He has given numerous workshops throughout the United States and Canada.

For further information contact Blake's Bookshop at 238 Crossroads Blvd., Carmel or call 626-1010.

Little Red Riding Hood — The Musical, Sort Of

The Frohman Academy for Musical Theatre Education presents an original musical, Little Red Riding Hood — The Musical — Sort Of, at the New Wharf Theatre in Monterey.

The show is written and directed by Kerry A. Hartjen, and features musical direction by Barney Hulse.

A family-oriented musical romp, the play takes place in a familiar fairy tale forest, but with a new wrinkle.

Final performances are set at 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 8 p.m. Sunday, June 23-25. Admission is $5 for children and $10 for adults. The New Wharf Theater is located on Fisherman's Wharf No. 1 in Monterey. For reservations, call 649-3032, or 649-5561.

Actors in the Adobes

A cultural and historical program of GroveMont Theater Outreach plays at 10:45 and 11:45 a.m. Saturdays through Sept. 9.

The Whaler and the Shopkeeper will be presented on Saturday, June 24 in the Custom House, on Custom House Plaza (649-7118). Walter Colton and Robert Semple will be staged the same day at Colton Hall on Pacific between Jefferson and Madison, all in downtown Monterey.

Short dramatic performances which re-create a specific time in Monterey's history (1832-1852), will be staged by local actors, including James Webber, Jeff Hudelson, Michael Jacobs, Sue Fishkoff, Morgan Stock, Jeff Heyer, Norman Stottmeister and Mindy Stock.

Historical characters portrayed in Monterey's historic adobes include Bayard Taylor, J. Ross Brown, Commodore Jones, Mrs. Ord, Walter Colton, Robert Semple, a whaler and a shopkeeper.

Funded by Thomas Doud Sr. and Anita M. Doud Fund of the Community Foundation of Monterey County, The Colton Hall Museum and Cultural Arts Commission of the City of Monterey and Monterey History and Art Association.

For more information call 649-0340.

I Do! I Do!

The GroveMont Theater opens its Cabaret Summer Season and newly expanded cafe theater with the Tom Jones/Harvey Schmidt musical I Do! I Do!.

The production runs at 8 p.m. Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays, and 7 p.m. Sundays through July 2. The theater is at 320 Hoffman (at Lighthouse) in New Monterey.

I Do! I Do! is directed by Harrison Shields, with musical direction by Barbara Souza, and features Kevin Hanstick and Eleanor Wyld. The production is based on The Four Poster, which follows an ordinary marriage from its beginning in 1890 through 1925.

The Cabaret Summer Season will feature theater favorites in a cafe theater setting, complete with table seating and an expanded drinks, desserts and hors d'oeuvres menu, including assorted beers and wines.

A four-show season ticket, which includes the Theaterfest

Tent production of Rodgers and Hammerstein's musical South Pacific, is available at reduced prices from single-ticket prices and range from $22 to $29. Opening Night Gala season tickets are $60; single ticket prices are $8.50 general, $7 for students, seniors and military on Thursdays and Sundays; $9.50 general and $8 for students, seniors and military on Fridays and Saturdays.

Tickets are available through Center Stage Ticketing at 649-5561 or through the GroveMont Theater at 649-6852.

The Perils of a Great City

Comedic writer offers advice at The Club

The Club and the Monterey Hotel will sponsor a one-day workshop devoted to comedy writing and performing on Sunday, June 25. Times are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Club, 321D Alvarado St., in downtown Monterey.

The seminar will be taught by Emmy Award-winning comedy writer and humorist, Gene Perret. Author of How to Develop and Sell Your Sense of Humor, Perret has also written comedy for the big-league players — Carol Burnett, Phyllis Diller, Tim Conway and Bill Cosby, among others. He has produced such notable TV sitcoms as Welcome Back Kotter, The Tim Conway Show and Three's Company.

Currently Perret serves as staff writer for Bob Hope. Hope says, "I travel all over the world doing comedy. When I need some extra special material, I call on Gene Perret."

At the workshop, Perret will cover writing, performing and marketing techniques of comedy. He'll also discuss humor as a powerful, revitalizing force in our lives. This workshop is ideal for anyone who loves to laugh and wants more of it.

Tickets can be purchased at the Club, 646-9244 or Center Stage, 649-5561.

Net proceeds from the seminar will benefit the Monterey County Aids Project.

For further information call Humorous Solutions, 373-4325.

A young wife and her husband are bedevilled by two greedy criminals in the 19th century melodramatic classic, The Perils of a Great City. It plays at California's First Theatre.

Curtain is at 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays through June. The theater, the oldest in the state, is located at the corner of Scott and Pacific streets in historic downtown Monterey.

Tickets are $6 for adults, $5 for seniors and teens and $4 for subteens. The theater box office is open 1 to 5 p.m. Wednesdays and Thursdays and 1 to 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays.

For tickets or information, call 375-4916 or 649-5561.

Study your psychological type with help of Friends of C.G. Jung

PARTICIPANTS will learn about their own psychological type at an introductory workshop sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Friends of C.G. Jung, set 7 p.m. Friday, June 23 at All Saints' Church, Ninth and Dolores, Carmel.

Early registration is urged, so that three instruments used to determine type may be scored prior to workshop time. There will be a brief review of how and why Jung came to formulate his typology, and then the structure and method of the three instruments will be compared and evaluated. There are differences between them, and participants can gain insights regarding the categorical judgments we all tend to make about ourselves and others.

The terms introvert and extrovert will be examined, as well as the functional preferences of thinking, feeling, sensing and intuition.

The public is invited to this and all other activities of the Friends of C.G. Jung. This is an informal collection of people who are sharing an enthusiasm for the writings of the Swiss physician and philosopher. They are finding practical applications to their everyday lives of his many seminal ideas.

Workshop leader for this event is Joseph Pagano of Monterey. A modest donation is requested to cover cost of materials. For further details, call or write 649-8809; 899 Drake Ave., Monterey.

MONTEREY PENINSULA PROPERTIES GUIDE

LENDERS CORNER

By Bill Glacken

The basics of refinancing

WITH FIXED rates dropping and demand in the housing market on the upswing, the homeowner is in an excellent position to consider various options.

The value of recognizable equity is the subject here, that is the current market value as determined by an appraiser minus the amount currently owed. Two facets to this are: Non Cash Out and Cash Out refinances.

A Non Cash Out refinance is normally desirable because the homeowner is interested in a lower monthly payment. Quite simply, the homeowner is swapping one loan for a better one. The recognizable equity is important from the standpoint that closing costs are captured and lender risk is lessened, thus allowing the borrower to take advantage of lower rates and better terms.

A Cash Out refinance is looked upon differently by borrowers and lenders alike. A homeowner who wants to realize a portion of the equity in a home by taking out cash is in a pivotal position. The homeowner/borrower can use this recognizable equity in a number of ways which are acceptable to the lender.

In both the Non Cash Out and Cash Out refinances a percentage of the market value is allowed in determining the actual loan amount. This generally has more impact on the Cash Out refinance. Lenders differ in requirements depending upon the various guidelines the individual institution has set up, usually determined by the board of directors and with government regulations in mind. The rates are different for owner-occupied, non-owner-occupied, duplexes, apartment buildings and commercial properties.

When considering refinancing, the single most important aspect is your objective. It sounds simple, but more often than not, folks either have a weak objective or none at all.

Don't refinance just to do it. Set and maintain a goal and you will be surprised what a driving force this will be in muddling through the details. Share the goal with your lender, sell the lender on its attributes and make him or her a part of the plan. But first, make sure you are sold on it to begin with.

You don't have to be an American
to die of a heart attack.

You also don't have to overeat. Or consume excessive amounts of cholesterol. Or ignore high blood pressure. Or smoke. But that's what a large segment of this country's population does. And that's one reason the United States has the highest incidence of heart attack in the world. At the American Heart Association, we're trying to help Americans change the way they live. And die.

ON CARMEL BEACH

NOT NEAR, NOT ACROSS, BUT ON Carmel Beach itself...an extremely rare and coveted location...and on this precious site two luxurious homes are now being built. Nestled in the dunes at the end of a private road, they'll take full advantage of the fabulous view of gleaming white sand and blue, blue ocean. Each home is designed by noted architect Gene Takigawa, and each will have three bedrooms, three baths, living room, dining room, family room, and two-car garage, featuring the finest craftsmanship. One home will be offered at $2,700,000, and the other at $2,400,000. Call us for details!

A COMFORTABLE HOME

JUST LISTED...a beautifully remodeled two-story home in Carmel, close-in yet within an easy stroll of the beach, offering attractive living in a flexible floor plan to suit your own life-style. There are three bedrooms and three full baths, and the family room can be closed off and used as a fourth bedroom, if you choose. Downstairs you'll find gleaming hardwood floors, and the upstairs is carpeted in snowy Berber. Dream kitchen with top-of-the-line appliances. And finally, there are Point Lobos and ocean views. $750,000.

DRAMA BY THE SEA

THE MAGNIFICENT sweep of the ocean with dramatic and ever-changing plays of light and shadow unfold before your eyes from this spacious home located by the 15th tee of the Monterey Peninsula Country Club's Shore Course. With 3,000 square feet of living space, this home offers a living room with an unsurpassed setting for your gatherings, an inviting dining room for your dinner parties, big big kitchen, view family room, view master bedroom, and two other comfortable bedrooms. Two furnaces for winter-time comfort, double garage with ample storage, and a sun-drenched patio on the land side. Watch the deer browse on the golf course from your living room! $1,100,000.

POSSIBILITIES

JUST LISTED in a quiet location in North Hatton Fields...a well-maintained and comfortable two-bedroom home, a good candidate for expansion, if you're so minded. The lot size is 70 by 100, and it's fenced on three sides. There are beautiful hardwood floors throughout, along with two baths, and a nice fireplace in the living room. There's a sunny patio for outdoor living, too. A well-priced home at $395,000.

PRIME ESTATE HOMESITE! Large level lot suitable for prestigious home with room for guest house, swimming pool & tennis court. $210,000. 625-0300.

PANORAMIC BAY VIEWS! Feel on top of the world on this sunny Jacks Peak property consisting of two 5-acre parcels...for a total of 10 acres offering outstanding Monterey Bay & ocean views to Santa Cruz, and 360-degree views from Moss Landing to Cannery Row, peaks of Carmel Valley fairways and of Pebble Beach vistas. Probably the best view property available on the market today! Older home with vaulted and beamed ceilings in sun room, living room and family room, plus 2 view terraces. Easy access to Carmel & Monterey. Room for swimming pool, tennis & horses! $1,500,000. 625-4111.

PACIFIC GROVE

COMSTOCK POST ADOBE! A spacious Comstock post adobe set on two lots on a cul-de-sac in an area near the Country Club gate to Pebble Beach. Nestled among mature oaks and lovely landscaping, this 3 bedroom, 3 bath home offers all the charm of an original Comstock home enhanced by open-beam ceilings & 2 fireplaces - one in the large master bedroom with skylight. There's a large eat-in kitchen, and an area that could be a dining room, plus hot tub on redwood decking. $310,000. 625-0300.

BRIGHT & LIGHT! Begin with a charming home, a big lot and the very best location. Continue with a home that is light and bright and has its own "special feeling" from the front door to the sunny den with fireplace over looking the yard. Two bedrooms, 2 baths plus an office, den or 3rd bedroom provide you with many choices of living styles. The master suite is downstairs with its own sitting area, fireplace & entrance. The kitchen has been updated, and there are 3 fireplaces. There is a pleasant deck at the back of the house. And there's even a garage and live-sized doll house. $359,000. 625-4111.

MONTEREY

COMSTOCK BEAUTY! Overlooking Del Monte fairways, this classic Comstock, with its special feeling of charm and character, has been restored to perfection. The post-adobe interior offers 3 bedrooms, 2 marble baths with wood cabinets & brass accents, track lighting, tile & hardwood floors and wood plantation shutters. There is a custom designed kitchen & an excellent floor plan. Outdoor living is oriented around the solar-heated pool & spa, detached office, outdoor fireplace & brick BBQ. It's a gem, it's a Comstock and it could be your home! $575,000. 625-0300.

GUEST HOUSE, TOO! On a beautiful corner lot in one of Monterey's most desirable neighborhoods, a single-level home plus darling guest house. A brick fireplace warms the spacious combination living-dining room of the attractive main house with 2 good-sized bedrooms & 1½ baths. Guest house includes a large living room, bedroom, full bath, wainscoting & 2 large storage lockers on the side. Lawn & oversized play area for children in a park-like mature oak-tree setting. Excellent add-on potential. $315,000. 625-0300.

SPECTACULAR BAY VIEWS! Capturing gorgeous views of Monterey Bay and city lights at night, a stunning, light and open contemporary located in desirable Skyline Forest area. Freshly painted inside and out, completely remodeled from the hardwood floors to new carpeting and custom-designed bathroom sinks, this home offers a brand-new feeling. High vaulted ceilings and extensive use of glass are on the bay-view side. A 400 sq. ft. view deck is off the living room and dining area. Two of the bedrooms & bath are on the main level, while the bay-view master suite occupies the spacious upper level. Family room or guest studio with fireplace and bath has separate entry on the first level. $595,000. 625-0300.

PEBBLE BEACH

LIGHT & SPACIOUS! Offering a contemporary feeling a dramatic 2-story home privately situated on a quiet 1/3-acre site convenient to Highway No.1 gate. The slate entry leads to the vaulted-ceiling living room with floor-to-ceiling windows opening to a spacious deck, lovely forested views and city lights at night. Light and open, this home is ideal for easy living and entertaining with a formal dining room and cheery kitchen. The downstairs bedroom and bath would make a great teen room or in-law quarters. There are a total of 4 bedrooms, and a total of 3 baths. $419,000. 625-0300.

WALK TO SEA! Open beam ceilings in the living room accentuate this better-than-new contemporary featuring great flexibility in living. From the 3-car garage with room for workshop to the patio off the family room, there are spaces for every need. The open-beamed ceiling living room is light & spacious with lovely forest views from its oversized windows. Three bedrooms & 2 baths on the main level and a bonus bedroom/den and bath on the separate entry lower level. The kitchen has an eat-in area with fireplace & there is a formal dining area as well. Top value. $489,000. 625-4111.

STEPS TO THE LODGE! This fine townhouse at The Lodge offers quality craftsmanship, deluxe appointments & exquisite decor throughout. A spacious skylit entry hall leads into the formal living & dining rooms which open out to a southern exposed deck. Upstairs, the luxurious master bedroom suite includes a second bedroom as well as a den with bath (easily closed off to form a guest suite), complete entertainment center & patio with hot tub. This beautiful home includes 3 bedrooms, 3 baths, 2 fireplaces, a 2-car garage plus many more superb features. $1,300,000. 625-4111.

OCEAN VIEW MEDITERRANEAN! Capturing gorgeous sea and fairway views, a gracious, meticulously-maintained home privately located behind lawns & stucco walls. The large-tiled entry leads to the spacious living room, doors in the family room lead to the front lawn, and a breakfast bar separates it from the light, tiled kitchen. A solarium room and powder room are nearby. The beamed-ceiling, step-down formal dining room is enhanced by hardwood floors & fireplace, and there is a cozy den with fireplace & built-in bookcases. Upstairs are 5 bedrooms & 5 baths, 2 dressing rooms, and separate entry, recreation room with fireplace. $1,600,000. 625-4111.

ELEGANT MEDITERRANEAN ESTATE! An ideal corporate or family retreat! Set on 2.5 magnificently landscaped acres above The Lodge, offering panoramic ocean views from Carmel Beach to Point Lobos, a gracious 5 bedroom, 6 bath estate home. With a gated, circular drive entry, this meticulously-tended, finely appointed large-roomed home is delightful both for family living and entertaining on a large scale. Amenities include a handsome library, 6 fireplaces, hardwood & tiled floors and hardwood stairways and accents. Two-bedroom guest cottage and studio apartment over a 5-car garage. A one-of-a-kind property offered including most furnishings! $4,000,000. 625-4111.

WHEN DID YOU LAST SEE A "KEEPING ROOM"?

We know where there is one. Down a quiet Carmel Valley cul-de-sac is an estate property with a beautiful big house full of surprises. It all began with an authentic slumpstone house by our famed builder Comstock, and it has grown with grace and charm. There is a soaring indoor terrarium, waterfalls indoors and out, dramatic lighting, a fully equipped butler's pantry, a big lily pond complete with giant koi fish, and more. Much more. Self-contained guest quarters are separated, and there are sunny patios and decks overlooking the spacious grounds. The property represents the best indoor-outdoor living. And if entertaining is your pleasure, this house with its four fireplaces offers endless variations and possibilities. $895,000.

CARMEL VALLEY RANCH

Looking for a life of ease and luxury? Come see and buy this 3 year old townhouse. A real entry leads into a lovely living room with its marble fireplace. There's a separate dining room, plus family room adjoining a "cooking with gas" kitchen. Enjoy the fireplace in your large master bedroom and luxuriate in the Jacuzzi tub or separate shower. Also, there are 2 additional bedrooms with full baths. And to top it off, an easy walk to the pool and spa. Priced for a quick sale at $365,000.

LOVELY FAMILY HOME

Lovely oaks and pines surround this family home. 4 bedrooms, 2 baths. Large living room and dining room with doors leading onto a deck overlooking the wooded hill side. The patio which is set away from the house completes the feeling of tranquility. There is also a separate guest apartment with 1 bedroom and 1 bath. $379,500.

STILLWATER

This Carmel 2 bedroom, 2 bath cottage is for you if you appreciate real quality. Hugh Comstock would love this up to date remodeling of his 1941 design. Views of Stillwater Cove, a location close to the beach and shops, a large Carmel stone fireplace, windows to the sea, a private flower filled patio, beautiful bathrooms, French doors through which the sun floods the master bedroom. Ah...home at last. $685,000.

HIGH MEADOWS CONDO

Want to simplify your life? This High Meadows Condo at the Ridge is in superb condition. Significantly upgraded spacious end unit. Large living room with fireplace and deck. 2 bedrooms, 2 baths. Pool and tennis courts. Affordably priced at $239,500.
